Britons Acclaim Scuttling of Graf Spee, Call Act 'Ignoble Suicide.'

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—Thirty-four British bombers were said by Germany to have been shot down in a terrific air battle off the North German coast in the vicinity of Helgoland this afternoon.

Forty-four British planes were said to have participated in the attack. Helgoland, a German naval base, is an island off the north coast of Germany. The German fighters rose to attack as soon as the British flight, the biggest unit used against Germany, was sighted.

Two German planes were lost, it was said. Their crews took to parachutes.

LONDON — The admiralty announced today the submarine Ursula had knifed through a screen of destroyers and sank a 6,000-ton German cruiser which carried a normal complement of 571 men.

The British Press association, at the same time, announced it had learned on good authority that this climatic stroke in heightening naval warfare had no connection with the torpedoing of a slightly-larger cruiser last week. Apparently both attacks took place last Thursday.

Moreover, it was confirmed in London that the German steamer Antiochia, 3,106 tons, was scuttled by her crew when pursued in the north Atlantic.

Britons acclaimed the past week their best of the war at sea, marked not only by the reported

Ashland College Professor Saves Couple From Fire

ASHLAND — Melvin Stuckey, professor of theology at Ashland college, early yesterday morning rescued Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Stoufer, 1115 King road from the front porch roof of their home where they were trapped after a fire broke out.

Stuckey, who lives nearby, was awakened by the couple's cries for help and immediately turned in a fire alarm. Clad only in his pajamas, he ran to his garage for a ladder. Putting it up to the roof, he helped the trapped couple down. Mrs. Stoufer was taken to the Stuckey home and later to the home of her son.

The Stoufers were awakened about 3 a. m. Sunday by the smell of smoke. Finding themselves trapped in their bed room, they crawled onto the porch roof to call for help.

Damage was estimated at $2,500. The fire is believed to have started in the basement but its origin is not known, according to Ashland firemen who extinguished the blaze. The blaze was confined to part of the basement and first floor. Most of the damage was caused by smoke.

Death Takes Ex-Mayor, Dentist

CHARLES M. LANTZ

DR. JOHN H. BRISTOR

Death claimed two prominent Mansfield residents over the week-end. Charles M. Lantz, 72, who served as mayor for two terms, died at his home, 205 Marion avenue, following a lengthy illness. A heart attack last evening proved fatal to Dr. John H. Bristor, 65, while visiting at the home of a cousin, Dr. John Duncan, in Killbuck, Holmes county. Dr. Bristor was a dentist here for 40 years and clerk of the Mansfield board of education since 1909.

LAST RITES FOR LANTZ TUESDAY

Former Mayor Dies at Age 72 After Long Illness; Served During Depression Days.

Mansfield pays its last respects tomorrow to former Mayor Charles McClain Lantz, 72, who died at his home, 205 Marion avenue, Sunday afternoon after a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Jones Memorial with Rev. H. S. Garnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in Lexington cemetery.

Pallbearers will be former political and business associates of Mr. Lantz. They are Councilman C. N. Shultz, Atty. William F. Black, County Prosecutor G. W. Marriott, E. B. Kallmerten, Harry O'Brien, Milton Conley, and James F. Carrigan, alternate.

The flag at the city building will be at half mast tomorrow in respect to Mr. Lantz, Mayor Claude M. Hunter said today.

Mr. Lantz was mayor of Mans-

DOUBLE FUNERAL

2 Victims of Auto-Train Crash to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Double funeral services for Mrs. Bertha Palmer, 53, and her sister, Mrs. Glen Ewers, 34, both of Shelby, who were killed in an automobile-train crash at the southwestern edge of Plymouth shortly before noon Saturday, will be held at 1 p. m. tomorrow at the First Church of Christ in Shelby.

Rev. R. T. Crowe, pastor of the First Church of Christ, and Rev. H. Norman Hendrickson of Atlanta, Ind., will officiate. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery in Shelby.

Meanwhile, their niece, Barbara Draves, two-and-one-half-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Draves of Toledo, whom the two women were returning to her home when the accident occurred, was reported in a serious condition at Shelby Memorial hospital from a fractured skull.

Mrs. Ewers was reported by state highway patrolman to have been driving the car which crashed into the locomotive of a westbound freight train at the Akron, Canton and Youngstown grade crossing.

ATTACK FATAL TO DR. BRISTOR

Veteran Dentist and School Board Clerk Dies Visiting Cousin in Killbuck.

A heart attack last night claimed Dr. John Henry Bristor, 65, veteran Mansfield dentist, religious leader, and clerk of the city board of education for nearly 31 years.

Dr. Bristor, who had been in failing health for about eight months, died at Killbuck, Holmes county, where he had gone to visit at the home of a cousin, Dr. John Duncan. He was stricken with a heart attack Saturday but he rallied and apparently was improving when he suffered the fatal attack shortly after 8 p. m. yesterday.

He had gone to Killbuck last Tuesday to rest for several weeks, hoping to regain his strength. He suffered a light stroke early last spring and since then had been at his office only part of the time. He lived at 68 East Second street.

Born in Mansfield April 25, 1874, Dr. Bristor lived his entire life in the city. He was the son of Dr. James R. Bristor and Mrs. Hannah Duncan Bristor. His father was a dentist in the city for nearly 40 years and the younger Dr. Bristor followed the same profession, almost equalling his father's service in the dentistry.

During most of his life, Dr. Bristor was a leader in the First Presbyterian church and its affiliated organizations and for 31 years he was associated with the city's schools as a member of the board of education or its clerk.

He served on the board of Former Congressman to Clash With Jenkins In Debate.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins (R.-Ohio) and Charles West, former 17th district congressman and former assistant secretary of the interior, will debate the question of a third term for president in a Columbus town meeting broadcast tonight.

West, former White House contact man on Capitol Hill, will defend the right of a chief executive to seek a third term. Jenkins will present the opposition argument.

The speeches will be broadcast by stations WCOL in Columbus and WHIZ in Zanesville starting at 9 p. m.

Donors Boost Finnish Relief Fund To $396 Over Week-end

Additional contributions amounting to $39.80 today increased Mansfield's Finnish relief fund to $396.83, with 23 donors swelling the total.

The $39.80 was brought or mailed to The News-Journal since Saturday noon when the total stood at $357.03. Seven of the contributors in the past 48 hour period gave anonymously.

The fund, collected by The News-Journal at the request of Herbert Hoover who is heading the drive in New York City, will be used to alleviate suffering in the tiny country.

Contributors since Saturday noon with the exception of the anononymous givers were:

C. F. Davidson, 151 West Third street; Mrs. C. B. Gray, 21 Prospect street; E. C. Crider, 167 Penn avenue; J. A. Kocheiser, 11 Chestnut street; I. E. Frontz, Perrysville; Mrs. H. E. James, 90 Blymyer; Mrs. Edith Faust, 229 Hedges street; Roy Antibus, 350 South Main street.

EXPECTS YULE BUYING TO HIT $2,500,000

Lodde Predicts City's Trade Will Be $250,000 Ahead of Purchases in 1938.

REPORTS ENCOURAGING

Sales Increases as High as 28 Per Cent Reported by Individual Merchants.

Indications that 1939 Christmas sales in Mansfield would be the best in years was seen today as the shopping season reached its peak and Christmas buying was reported up 10 per cent over last year.

V. H. Lodde, secretary of the Retail Merchants association predicted that Christmas business this year would hit the $2,500,000 mark, an increase of approximately $250,000 over the corresponding period a year ago.

"The drop in temperature during the past week accelerated Christmas buying with the result that it turned out to be a banner week for merchants," Lodde said.

While a general increase of 10 per cent was estimated in sales this year, some stores reported increases from 15 to 18 per cent and one department store said its business was up 28 per cent.

Lodde pointed out that improved employment conditions in Mansfield was reflected in the sales increase.

"Persons long employed have been back on the payrolls long enough to handle back bills and still have something left over for Christmas buying," he explained.

The purchases, he said, moved towards toys and gifts and although people are not buying as many essentials as in past years the volume is still even with 1938.

Merchants reported Saturday that they had the "busiest" day of the current shopping season.

HOLIDAY NEAR

Schools to Close Friday for Christmas Vacation.

Students of the Mansfield public and parochial schools today began their final week of school for 1939 before they are dismissed for their annual Christmas vacation.

Public school pupils will be dismissed Friday afternoon for a two-week vacation, returning Monday, Jan. 8. Students at St. Peter's elementary and high schools also will be dismissed Friday afternoon but will resume their studies Tuesday, Jan. 2.

The holiday for Country Day school begins at noon Friday and continues until Jan. 8.

Students in Madison and Springfield township schools also start their annual two-week Christmas vacation this week. Madison township pupils will be dismissed Wednesday afternoon, returning Jan. 3, and Springfield pupils will be dismissed Thursday afternoon, returning to school Jan. 2.

Cuyahoga County Man Walks Into Reformatory to Finish Term.

John Horvak, 31, Cuyahoga county, who escaped from the Grafton honor camp eight years ago, surrendered to Supt. Arthur L. Glattke at the Ohio State reformatory today.

Glattke said Horvak walked into the institution to complete a one to 15 year term for burglary and larceny. He escaped from the camp in 1931 after serving little less than two years.

Because he returned of his own volition, he will be required to serve only six months additional, instead of the usual two-year penalty for escape, Glattke said.

Men, Accused of Luring Girl Into House, Go Before Jury

Two men were to go before the county grand jury today on statutory charges involving a 13-year-old Pavonia girl whom they allegedly enticed to an East Fourth street rooming house Saturday night.

The girl, reported missing by her father shortly after midnight Saturday, was hidden on the roof of the rooming house Sunday afternoon when police entered and arrested the two men, police said.

The girl told officers the men accosted her on the street about 10 p. m. Saturday as she was going to her father's car and persuaded her to go with them to the house. The pair was held in the city jail.

At least 10 other cases, including five major ones, were to be presented to the grand jury which convened this morning. The session was expected to be concluded this evening, but the two last-minute cases may keep the jurors in session until tomorrow morning, it was said.

Among the other cases Prosecutor G. W. Marriott was to submit to the jury were those involving charges of rape and attempted rape against George Call, Sharon township; armed robbery charges against George Fancher, Mansfield, and Earl Montgomery, Zanesville; a charge of assault with intent to kill against Ralph Copeland, Mansfield reformatory inmate, who attacked Charles J. McFadden, a guard; and a manslaughter charge against Paul Paraske, Mansfield.

The prosecutor said he would present four or five cases to the jury for secret indictments. Most of them involve non-support charges or second charges against defendants who are accused openly, he said.

MOVES UP PAY DAY FOR WPA

Workers to Get Checks In Time For Last-Minute Yule Buying.

The 600 WPA workers in Richcounty and 104,000 in Ohio will get their December pay checks in time to do some Christmas shopping and celebrate the New Year, Dr. Carl Watson, state administrator, said today.

About half of the workers who were scheduled to be paid from Dec. 24 to 28 will get their checks Saturday and the others who were not to have been paid until after Dec. 31, will receive their pay Dec. 30, Watson said.

The workers will be permitted to accumulate sufficient overtime between now and Christmas and New Years to move their pay days ahead, the administrator addde.

Explosions Shake German Battleship 16 Hours After Crew Destroyed Her With Dynamite; Captain Accuses Uruguay Of Deliberate 'Sabotage.'

BULLETIN

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—A high Argentine official said the 1,039 crewmen of the sunken German pocket-battleship Graf Spee, who arrived here today, would be interned.

(By International News Service)

BUENOS AIRES—Blown up by her own captain and crew in preference to internment or battle with a superior British fleet, the once proud German pocket battleship, Admiral Graf Spee, fell to pieces on the muddy floor of the river Plate estuary off Montevideo harbor today.

Still rocked by periodic explosions almost sixteen hours after Captain Hans Langsdorff and his crew scuttled one of the finest vessels of the German navy, the Graf Spee's super-structure gave way at 9:45 a. m. (8:15 a. m. E.S.T.) when the mast and conning tower burned through and toppled into the water.

This left the smoking hulk virtually at water level while Captain Langsdorff, freed after brief detention by Uruguayan officials, was on his way to Argentina with his crew to be interned at the Argentine naval base at Rio Santiago.

The Graf Spee was deliberately blown up and sunk in flames last night under the instructions of her commander, Captain Hans Langsdorff, who accused Uruguayan officials of "purposely sabotaging" repair work on the crippled vessel after it entered Montevideo harbor from a battle with three British cruisers.

Many hours after the first explosion converted the ship into a blazing furnace, the upper structure of the vessel that protuded above the surface of the water shot flames into the sky, fed by frequent explosions.

Meanwhile, members of the crew of the doomed German ship were scheduled to be brought to Argentina for internment.

Authorities at Buenos Aires maintained strict secrecy as to when and where the Graf Spee crew will arrive. But it was presumed the German officers and sailors would disembark and be interned at the naval barracks at Rio Santiago, some 40 miles from Buenos Aires.

It was learned that seven tons of explosives were used to destroy

EYE WITNESS: Flames Signal Sinking of Prized Nazi Raider

(By United Press)

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay—The Admiral Graf Spee lay still on a still sea. There was no sign of life on her deck, no smoke came from her single funnel, but her great 11 inch guns were pointed to sea where enemy ships awaited her.

Suddenly a huge flash of red smoke leaped out of her funnel. A great puff of black smoke was belched out. The great ship seemed to shake. Flames leaped up.

Nearby was the German tank ship, Tacoma. On her deck, facing the funeral pyre, were row after row of men in the uniform of the German navy, all standing stiffly at attention. They had been standing that way before and now there was no change in their rigid postures. They had known what was coming and this was their tribute to their expiring ship.

The United Press correspondent watched the drama from an airplane flying above the Admiral Graf Spee. The slim fighting ship had eased slowly down the channel from Montevideo's inner harbor. The plane dipped low.

The Admiral Graf Spee's hull and control tower seemed intact, showing no trace of the shell holes inflicted by British cruisers. A few sailors were working here and there on deck. She seemed a normal warship passing out to sea under normal conditions.

Yet four small motor launches, loaded with German sailors, trailed her. As she left the channel she turned westward in the river Plate, toward Buenos Aires. A warship

TRAPPED: Finns Surround Two Red Regiments of 10,000 Men

BULLETIN

COPENHAGEN—(AP)—Norwegian reports from northern Finland today described forest fighting in which a patrol of nine Finnish soldiers was said to have killed 700 Russians in an exposed highway position.

(By Associated Press)

HELSINKI — Russian tank-pointed attempts to crack Finnish defenses on the eastern flank of the Mannerheim line were reported today to have been smashed by the defenders' field guns.

The difficulties of the Soviet's mechanized warfare in the choppy, snow-drifted terrain of Finland's southeastern lake country were reflected in a Finnish communique telling of destruction of 30 tanks, including three "land battleships"—30-ton machines.

Particularly intense was the combat yesterday north of Lake Ladoga which the reds have been trying to round from the south and east to roll up the flank of the main Finnish line. The Finnish forces reported all attacks repulsed on the Karelian isthmus and elsewhere in the southeast.

Meanwhile, the commander of Finnish troops on the Salla and Petsamo fronts told Swedish correspondents that two Russian forces of about 10,000 men each, were surrounded in the vicinities of Tolva Jarvi and Suomussalmi, about 45 miles and 245 miles, respectively, north of Lake Ladoga.

The Tolvajarvi force would be part of the army Russia is trying to send around Lake Ladoga while

Bricker's Defense of Relief Meets Criticism, Praise

OHIO ECONOMY CLAIM DRAWS BITTER FIRE

Davey, Ferguson Hit Statement; Congressman Backs Increase in WPA.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Gov. John W. Bricker found both criticism and support of his relief-financing policies awaiting his return today from a speaking engagement in New York.

Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, who recently decried the governor's failure to call a special session of the legislature to provide additional funds for poor relief, thanked the state administration for "cooperation" in meeting the city's emergency.

Meanwhile, former Gov. Martin L. Davey and State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson disputed Bricker's claim of having saved the state $10,000,000, in 1939.

In his address before the Ohio society of New York, Governor Bricker declared that "Ohio and Cleveland have taken care of their people, but the federal government has failed miserably in Ohio."

He charged that WPA was manipulated for political purposes and that "during the past year WPA employment in Ohio has been cut by Washington 53.6 per cent while the average reduction for the whole United States for the same period was only 43.9."

Rep. Dudley A. White (R-Ohio) declared that unless Ohio WPA employment was raised to the national level within the next few weeks he would enlist Ohio congressmen in "a movement to require the President to give us the same treatment as other states."

White said the governor "clearly showed the state administration is not indifferent to humanitarian needs" and expressed belief that the public would "support his efforts to take the monkey business out of relief."

Calls For Proof.

Davey, Democratic predecessor of Bricker, challenged the present chief executive to prove his economy claims.

In a letter addressed to Bricker, Davey said that instead of saving the state $10,000,000, the Republican administration was spending this year $7,000,000 more than it collected in taxes.

Davey termed Bricker's assertion that he inherited a $40,000,000 deficit from the Davey administration "the most astounding falsehood ever told by anyone in public office."

The former governor said he left more than $6,000,000 balance in the highway department which Bricker could have used for relief "if you had not been so hard-hearted and callously indifferent to human distress."

Bricker said Davey was "just a name caller" and that he didn't "pay any attention" to him, adding "he's as dead as a door nail."

MRS. HEICHEL TAKEN BY DEATH

Long Illness Fatal to Mansfield Resident; Funeral Wednesday.

Mrs. Tillie Heichel 59, of 248 South Diamond street, wife of Hurshel Heichel, died yesterday at her home after a long illness. Mrs. Heichel was born June 24, 1880, at Napoleon, O., but had been a resident of Mansfield a number of years.

Surviving are her husband; two daughters, Mrs. H. Lee Baer and Mrs. Emma Frye; a sister, Mrs. Elson Heichel; a brother, Sylvester Eberle and four grandchildren all of Mansfield. She was a member of the First Lutheran church.

Funeral services will be held at the Wappner funeral home at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in charge of Rev. Grover E. Swoyer. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. The body will remain at the home until Wednesday morning.

Up and Down THE STREET

Do you remember when you were just a little shaver, and had money to spend for Christmas presents? Then you'll know how a certain little Mansfield girl feels who bought her daddy a gift Saturday, had it wrapped in gold and brown paper, and trotted off to a dime store to buy something for her doll when she lost it. In tears she told the store manager of her trouble but a search was of no avail. It was her first venture at gift buying and to say she feels badly is putting it mildly. If the finder leaves the parcel at the News-Journal office, it will be returned to the little lady.

Most Christmas trees, once decorated, stay in one place during the holidays, but the Y. M. C. A. has moved its tree once and will move it at least twice more before the holiday season ends. The tree was decorated in the gymnasium Saturday for a children's party and this morning was moved to the lobby to make room for gym classes. It will remain there until Friday, when it will be returned to the gymnasium for another party. Gym classes will again force its return to the lobby. Each time it is moved, most of the trimmings must be removed.

It isn't very often that people go picnicking in the park in December — but that actually happened right in Mansfield Saturday. With downtown streets and stores jammed with Christmas shoppers, a woman and three small youngsters stopped in Central park during the noon rush hour, unpacked their lunch and basked in the sunshine while they ate their dinners.

* * *

It may seem a bit incongruous at first glance, but out on the Lexington avenue road there's a bright green trailer parked in a lot, and when darkness comes and the lights are switched on, passersby may observe a large cross illuminated with red bulbs suspended in one of the windows.

COLUMNIST DIES

Heywood Broun Stricken by Pneumonia, Heart Attack.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Heywood Broun, 51, columnist and president of the American Newspaper Guild, died today.

Broun died in the Harkness pavilion of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical center, where he was taken Thursday night when pneumonia developed from a heavy cold.

From the start, Broun, an incorrigible optimist, had treated his illness with his customary good nature, devoting one of his last columns to a whimsical discussion of the advice of a physician who had told him to seek rest in Florida.

Broun, a native of Brooklyn, entered newspaper work in 1908 as a reporter on the New York Morning Telegraph. In 1912 he went to the New York Tribune as sports editor. Later he became the paper's dramatic critic. He was the Tribune's war correspondent with the A. E. F. in France in 1917.

He went to the New York World in 1921 and began his daily column "It Seems to Me." Broun went to the Telegram, which later bought the World. Last week he transferred to the New York Post as columnist.

SPECULATE ON GARNER'S PLANS

Washington Expects Platform to Include Balanced Budget, and His Past Record.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—John N. Garner's presidential platform was expected today to include planks advocating a balanced budget, freedom for private enterprise and an "America First" foreign policy.

The vice president, who formally entered the 1940 presidential race Saturday, has made no announcement of his program, but friends said that he intended to "stand on his record" compiled through many years in the house and as presiding officer of the senate.

While a member of the house, he made speeches demanding that the government balance its income and expenditures, advocated freedom from business and adopted an "America first" slogan in dealing with foreign affairs.

Garner announced his candidacy in a brief statement issued at his Uvalde, Tex., home a few minutes before he started on a hunting trip. He made no mention of Mr. Roosevelt, nor did he seek his blessing.

Garner's announcement came as no surprise to Washingtn politicians. For months it has been known that he planned to be in the field—possibly as a "stop Roosevelt" candidate, possibly as a national convention power whose support would determine the Democratic nomination.

With the formal declaration, however, Democrats expected a pre-convention campaign between New Dealers and conservatives that might wreck all hopes of party harmony.

SIZE OF OHIO'S PENSION VOTE SHOWS WAY TO POLITICIANS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The 460,000 pension votes rolled up last month in Ohio furnish a patent clue to the form which a lot of political promises will take next year.

Half a million votes in an off-year election are not to be overlooked. Any issue that can pull that many persons to the polls can command the respect of politicians. The total represents 10,000 more votes than Charles Sawyer got in Ohio in 1938 to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination from Martin L. Davey.

When to the 460,000 pension votes in Ohio are added the adherents that will be drummed up by Townsendites during their year long drive in Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio and Illinois, the result promises to be something that will make practical politicians do a lot of chin rubbing.

Already, the Townsend campaign is well under way in Pennsylvania. The pension pleaders have signed up 21 small radio stations which bombed their listeners twice a week with the invitation to all over 60 that they settle down to ease and plenty.

Two of these stations pour the doctrine across the line into New York. Others in that state will be signed later. Then the campaign will be taken into Ohio and Illinois. By the time the presidential campaign gets going, word-dumping stations will be operating full blast in all four states.

Sheridan Downey, the persuasive Democratic senator from California, is collaborating with Dr. Francis E. Townsend in conducting the campaign. Downey's idea is to sell the plan to the Democratic party.

But Dr. Townsend may have something else in mind for him.

It may easily work out that while Downey is trying to work within the framework of the Democratic party next year, Dr. Townsend will be booming him as a Townsend convention candidate for president. Stranger things have happened in politics; and the Townsendites have sometimes done them.

WIDOW, 82, DIES

Mrs. Harriet Shaniberger Stricken at Home.

Mrs. Harriett E. Shaniberger, 82, of 488 Crescent road, widow of Abraham Shaniberger, died Monday at her home following a brief illness.

Mrs. Shaniberger was born Jan. 29, 1857 in Ashland county and spent her entire life in this vicinity. She was a member of the First Lutheran church.

Surviving are a daughter, Miss Annabel Shaniberger at home, three nieces and two nephews.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. E. J. BOONE

Long-Time Lexington Resident Dies Near Bellville.

Lewis Committee Says NLRB's 'Reactionary Decisions' Threaten Existence.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The Congress of Industrial Organizations demanded today a change in the National Labor Relations act to prevent the "carving up" of industrial union groups.

Abandoning its previous stand against changing the Wagner act, a CIO committee headed by John L. Lewis called for new legislation on the ground that the labor board "in an attempt to appease the reactionary interests, including the leaders of the American Federation of Labor, has issued decisions which have threatened the existence of the industrial unions of the CIO."

Meanwhile, the house committee investigating the labor board with a view to recommending revision of the Wagner act called to the stand Philip G. Phillips, the board's Cincinnati director. The committee wanted to know whether his handling of labor disputes had been impartial.

The CIO asked for three amendments to the law:

1. To prevent attempts of the board "to carve out craft units within industrial union organization."

2. To provide criminal penalties for employers convicted of violating the law.

3. To forbid government contracts with employers who have violated the labor relations law.

Plan Adjournment.

A CIO leader said that his organization earlier had believed some administrative changes in the law were needed, but had opposed all amendments to prevent "emasculation" of the law. Criticisms of the law then had come from the AFL and from various industrial groups.

Congress probably will take no action on amendments until the house committee completes its hearings. They will adjourn for the holidays tomorrow, to be resumed after Congress convenes on Jan 3.

Phillips followed to the stand another Ohio official who said Saturday that he was asked to resign as NLRB director in Cleveland because he offered a "square deal" to litigants.

The witness, James P. Miller, said the reason given for his forced resignation was that he attended a "champagne dinner" arranged in New York by Glenn Smith, a Cleveland attorney who had cases pending before Miller at the time.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Tells How Treasury Sharpened Practices To Hike Tax Revenue

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

WASHINGTON — Yesterday's living human document said the legitimate citizen was harassed and might be blackmailed under the income tax law while racketeers were protected and I am anticipating a challenge.

A few years ago, when Henry Morgenthau was scraping the bottom of the barrel, he bethought himself of the fact that in the piping times of Republican prosperity the law was administered with soft pressure and sent men out to comb returns for several years back.

He figured that the gleanings would amount to something and they did. But to get these gleanings his accountants reversed old rulings and interpretations under which individual returns had been accepted in the past, and for every trick a taxpayer had invented to reduce his tax, Henry's men invented another, equally snide or unconscionable, to raise it.

He even hired men on a modified commission basis whose success was gauged not on the basis of honest inspection and assessment but by the amounts which they were able to bring in.

They figured out a psychology play, too. They would put it up to a man whether it was really worth his time to haggle over a deficiency, with interest, to the neglect of his business of earning more income on which to pay taxes.

Some of the back taxes, no doubt, were legitimate, but they knew public opinion would not sympathize with any protest however just, by any man with sufficient income to justify any tax at all. That was more psychology. They got so rough on legitimate citizens that Henry finally had to warn his field hands to take it easy. They had worked themselves into the mood of the old-time, gat-and-badge prohibition agent.

But dishonest income never is unreasonable or excessive. If a crook pays a tax on his stealings the sky is the limit, while a businessman may be told that the salary which he pays himself is too big, so that he will have to pay double taxes on part of it. And a doctor with an ace-deuce practice, earning a few thousand a year, will have to pay, while a dangerous ignoramus with a religious or political racket, receiving $100,000 a year, as gifts, is exempt. Gifts aren't income and the donor pays a gift tax only if his gittt is way up in G.

And here is where the blackmail comes in.

Suppose you are a citizen of one of the real crooked states, say Louisiana, Jersey, Illinois or Pennsylvania, and some politician wants to dig into your business. The law permits state authorities to inspect federal tax returns, ostensibly for taxing purposes only. However, after your tax return has been kicked around the departments of a state or county government in a pretense of preparing a tax case, your life is an open book to all the crooks in office who want to bear down on you. They can just about slay you.

But even if state authorities do prowl through the confidential tax statements of a thief, they can't use the information in a criminal action. It is inadmissible, and a state prosecutor can be fined and imprisoned under federal law for attempting to use it in a prosecution for, let us say, swindling or grafting.

Moreover, a conviction obtained on evidence indirectly revealed through a tax return is reversible if it can be proved that the tax return did furnish the clew. And, in the federal government, the treasury can't pass on to the department of justice positive information of a criminal act disclosed in a criminal's return even though the operation violates a federal law.

We do treat criminals real nice in our tax relations.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The man who squeezed "The Grapes of Wrath" through the cameras is John Ford, one of the town's top directors and most interesting individuals.

Reportedly pocketing $100,000 for every picture he makes, Ford lives in a simple nine-room house in Hollywood, the same he bought when, nearly 20 years ago, he married Mary McBryde Smith of Laurinburg, N. C.

He has kept the same wife as well as the same house that long, and both are unusual feats in Hollywood. Most film lights have moved to new, more fashionable residential sections. Mrs. Ford says they've always been happy where they are, and might be tempting fate by moving. She is small, attractive and brunette. They met on a St. Patrick's day and were married the next Fourth of July — which makes anniversary-remembering easy. They have two children, Barbara, 16, and Pat, 18.

With the Steinbeck best-seller on celluloid, Ford took to the seas as usual. His one luxury is his yacht Araner, on which he keeps a crew of eight men. He has taken it to Mexican waters for this vacation, and is fishing, swimming, and working. He has none of the other usual trappings of movie wealth, no swimming pool, no tennis courts.

His library—he is an omnivorous reader — includes a large section of books on Irish subjects by Irish authors. His father came from Galway in 1876, his mother, Barbara Curran, from the Islands of Aran. Both now dead, both spoke Gaelic, and Ford himself is distinctly Irish in sentiment, character and personality.

He was born in Portland, Me., on February 1, 1895, and is a graduate of the University of Maine. He was attracted to films by the success of his elder brother, Francis, one-time movie idol of the serials. Francis is usually a striking character in Ford films, but is absent from "The Grapes of Wrath."

Like every director, he has "favorite" character actors, uses them whenever possible. Of these Mae Marsh, John Carradine, Ward Bond, Jack Pennick, and Russell Simpson are in "Grapes." Slim Summerville, Warren Hymer, J. Farrell McDonald are not. His staff, with him for years, includes his brother, Eddie O'Fearna, assistant director, his script girl, Meta Stern, his second assistant, Wingate Smith.

"Grapes," all the sets of which were closed, was a Ford paradise, not only because he believed in the story but because he objects to visitors. If there is a "gala premiere," he probably won't be there. He has never yet been to one, says he can't judge his own pictures. His worst effort he thinks was "The World Moves On." His worst disappointment was "The Plough and the Stars," which was cut after he left on a vacation.

He directs quietly, encourages "kidding" among his players, tries to make each one feel his role, however small, is important.

His game is "hearts," his hobby pipes, of which his collection numbers about 300. Among actors his best friends are Ward Bond and John Wayne. He picked Wayne for "Stagecoach," which put Wayne up there with the best. He is at his directorial best in virile, down-to-earth films. "Grapes" is probably the earthest he's ever done.

He usually wears old clothes, sweaters, owns but one real business suit. He has one old leather jacket Mrs. Ford is always trying to give away. Last time she did, he spent $100 retrieving it.

DIES AT AGE 73

G. M. DeBolt, 73, of Mt. Vernon, died here yesterday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Walter Henry, Ninth avenue, following a long illness.

Born March 10, 1866, Mr. DeBolt made his home in Mt. Vernon, but had lived here with his daughter since July. He was preceded in death by his wife seven years ago. Eight other children, in addition to Mrs. Henry, survive him.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at Mt. Vernon.

Lack of Manners Apparent

Probably you read in the paper last week about the young man formerly a theater usher who inherited $200,000 from an old lady to whom he had shown no more than ordinary courtesy in the performance of his duties at the theater.

This is not a plea to go rushing out and offer a helping hand to people, shabby and otherwise, who might leave you a sizable fortune. But it is a plea that within your own circle you cultivate good manners. In this age of jitterbug youth it seems to be the smart thing to disregard the code that has been working automatically to civilize people since the days of the caveman.

It seems to be smart to burn holes in tablecloths and furniture with cigaret stubs. Why not squash them out? It's careless to set wet cocktail glasses on cherished pieces of furniture where they leave rings. Before setting them down, wipe the moisture with your handkerchief, if no "coaster" is supplied.

They seem to think — these jitterbug youngsters—that it's smart not to answer invitations, to turn up at functions without saying whether or not they intend to come or stay away. They do not even pay their hostess the courtesy of refusing or accepting over the telephone. At parties, even the simple afternoon tea, young people decline to say whether they will honor the function with their presence or send it into deep mourning by staying away.

Hostesses have to prepare tea sandwiches and other refreshments. To speak plainly, noses must be counted, or approximately counted, and you place your hostesses at a disadvantage by keeping them on the anxious seat.

There is also the question of presents. I have had innumerable letters from brides, especially those who have married into what the British call "upper circles," namely people more prosperous than themselves. Young ladies have either failed to acknowledge wedding presents or have sent out engraved or fancy cards ordered at the department store, thanking for the gifts. There is only one way to acknowledge a wedding present and that is to write by hand with pen and ink on your best notepaper and say that you appreciated the gift, and it's just what you wanted—whether it is or is not. These polite lies will be forgiven by the recording angel.

The same rule holds good for Christmas or birthday gifts which come from a distance. Write a note, and say that the gift was appreciated. Of course, if the present is sent by your dearest friend or the young man to whom you have strictly honorable intentions and hope to be engaged to, before the week is out, you can tell him or her personally how much you appreciated the gift.

Even the dullest household tasks have added zest with a neat, crisp frock like Pattern 9086 to work about in.

Pattern 9086 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 5⅛ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

Don't neglect to write bread-and-butter letters if you have enjoyed the hospitality of someone over the week-end. Write a polite note and say you enjoyed yourself. In answering notes and writing letters, avoid the pencil.

You can get decent looking stationery at any five-and-ten, but avoid pernicious pinks or poisonous greens. Buy cream-colored or white stationery, a five-cent bottle of ink and a pen.

If you don't know how to write a gracious note, send me a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope and I'll tell you what books to buy or borrow at your public library which will help you through the ordeal.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"She is here in the farm house—I think, at the present moment, with Katharine. We brought her back with us."

"I am sure you must have had the best of reasons for bringing her here."

"We had," Lillian said crisply. "There were minor members of the gang trailing us who, we were sure, knew of her share in spiking the plot against Dicky. We simply did not dare to risk their trailing us to the home of Edith's sister, Leila Durkee, not only on Edith's account, but for fear of possible danger to Leila's children. And we did not dare to leave her unprotected in New York, for her own sake, so we brought her with us."

His face relaxed its grimness ever so little.

"I can see no other course was open to you," he said. "But may I inquire what steps you are taking to restrain her possible—unpleasant—activities while she is beneath this roof?"

"When you see her," Lillian returned quickly, "you will realize, as we did, that no precautions concerning her are necessary. She is a broken and a contrite woman. Sometime, when we both have leisure for the recital, I will tell you what retribution is hers for what I believe is the last bit of devilment she will ever perpetuate. But I am certain of one thing. Her claws have been drawn. She will never be dangerous again."

"That is welcome news," my father said.

"There is an old Biblical proverb," he said slowly, "which refers to a leopard changing his spots. I do not wish to be uncharitable, but I should not advise putting full trust in this particular—leopardess—until she has had opportunity to prove fully her change of heart—and spots."

"Don't worry!" Lillian adjured him with the flippancy which she alone dares to use in speech with him. "Your little friend, Lillian, is on the job with both feet. When I said no precautions were necessary, I did not mean I wasn't keeping my eyes open in her direction."

"That is all the assurance I need," my father told her, smiling. "And now," turning to Dicky, "that I am assured of your safety, and the foiling of the plot against you, there is no need for either you or Margaret to stay here for the discussion of tedious details which I must go over with Lillian and Harry, especially as I know you must have many things to say to each other."

"That expresses it feebly," my husband said, flashing a smile at me, but when we were once outside the door and away from any possibility of our being overheard, he said a bit caustically:

"Looks as if we were being told to run away and play while the real work is being done, doesn't it?"

Strudel Happy Thought

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

FROM NOW on the holiday season is in full swing, so far as kitchens are concerned. It's virtually impossible to think in any culinary terms other than those involving fruit cakes, mincemeat, turkey stuffing and holiday pies.

Grand at this time of year is apple strudel. Try serving afternoon coffee with strudel when friends gather round the fire. Have the coffee with whipped cream and a dusting of cinnamon to mark the season of good cheer.

Apple strudel isn't the easiest thing in the world to make, but here's a recipe that is moderately easy. Pennsylvania Apple Strudel is made with five cups sliced apples, one cup brown sugar, one-half cup seedless raisins, one-half cup chopped nuts, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, three tablespoons melted butter, two and one-half cups flour, teaspoon salt, two tablespoons shortening, two slightly-beaten eggs, one-half cup warm water, grated rind of a lemon. Sift the flour and salt together. Cut in the shortening and add the eggs and water. Knead well, then throw or knead dough against the board until it blisters. Stand it in a warm place under a cloth for 20 minutes. Cover the kitchen table with a small white cloth and flour it. Put dough on it. Pull out with hands very carefully to the thickness of tissue paper. Spread with a mixture made of remaining ingredients. Fold in outer edges and roll about four inches wide. Bake in 450 degree F. oven for 10 minutes, reduce the heat to 375 degrees F. and then bake for about 20 minutes. Let cool. Cut in slices about two inches wide.

Fill the Cookie Jar

The cookie jar should never be empty during the holidays, so here are some recipes to add to your cookie repertoire.

Walnut Oatmeal Cookies, tasty and wholesome, are good at the holidays. Recipe is for four tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon each salt and soda, three-fourth teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon each cloves and allspice, one cup walnut meats (chopped), four tablespoons shortening, one cup sugar, one egg (well beaten), five tablespoons milk, one and three fourths cups oatmeal, one and one-half cups flour. Cream together butter and shortening and add sugar gradually while beating constantly. Add well-beaten egg, oatmeal, chopped walnut meats and the flour mixed and sifted with the salt, soda, cinnamon, cloves and allspice. Drop from the tip of spoon on buttered baking sheet one inch apart. Place a walnut meat half in center of each, and bake in moderate oven for 15 minutes.

Make-Up Goes Natural

By MME. QUI VIVE

Heretofore we haven't shown much restraint in the use of make-up. The rosy blob on the cheek masqueraded as a blush. Lips were widened with currant colored cream; twin red banners on the face. Eyebrows vanished to give way to crayoned lines. Powders, especially during the sun tan mania, were all too often suggestive of cosmetic calcimine.

What now? Every woman who keeps step with changes of dress and beauty fashions is aiming to look as if she had been born beautiful and scorns artifice. Oh, yes, my hearties, she still resorts to artifice but she has learned to do tricks so that it is scarcely revealed to the eye.

She uses powder as light as the fluff on a butterfly's wing, and she goes over her celestial face with a camel's hairbrush so that the skin carries only the slightest film, just enough to give it a velvet surface. Rouge she may or may not use. If she finds it necessary to carry a counterfeit blush, it is just a touch of coloring. Lips are not heavily painted. Lipsticks of lighter consistency are used. After the application the flesh is touched lightly with tissues so that the thick, heavy appearance vanishes and the character of the natural surface is not changed.

Here are a few suggestions to keep in mind when you sit before your dressing table, do cute little stunts with your beauty gadgets:

Endeavor to give a slight upsweep to the lip corners. Careless application of the crimson stick often forms a downward line that gives one a sorrowful expression. The uplift means that there's ever present the shadow of a smile and the face carries an expression of cheerfulness and good nature.

The marking on the upper lip should be fairly broad. A thin, narrow upper lip makes the teeth look large. Those movie stars in Hollywood know what they're about when they paint the lips to appear full and wide.

If the face is plump keep the cheek coloring high, over the eyelids and temples. That slenderizes the lower portion of the face.

Keep a normal eyebrow line, arched but not arched too high, certainly not in a straight line.

Lift the ends of the eyebrows—you know, the kind that Satan has—if you wish to make your forehead appear higher. If you would have it lower, let the eyebrows droop at the far ends.

Touch the lashes with mascara if they are not dark. Light-colored eyebrows make the face look vapid and uninteresting.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, December 19.

A PARTICULARLY active and progressive day is forecast from the dominant planetary figures. It is a time for reaching for important objectives with the assurance of the hearty support, financial and friendly, of those in power to promote major interests, especially in the realm of writings, advertising, publication, promotions and all manner of transportation and communication agencies. Short journeys might advance development of plans. A major denouement with confidential or secret roots may materialize.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of unusual success, with high attainments and fulfilled ambitions forecast for them. Objectives may be realized in writings, publishing, advertising, promotion, any or all things involving correspondence, communication, transportation and short journeys. While success seems to find stimulation from hidden influences, the denouements may be conspicuously public.

A child born on this day may be talented in many directions, and have a fertile mind and much creative dexterity, intuition and illumination. Those in high places may contribute to its ambitious achievements.

GUARDING THREE SUITS

There is no limit to the number of different kinds of squeeze plays which can occur, and the variations of them. One of the most interesting types is that on which a defender has to take his choice of discards from among three suits, any one of which will be fatal to his cause. Such a squeeze may come so early that neither the declarer nor the defender knows until later that it was in operation.

The bidding on this deal resulted in South becoming declarer at 3-No Trumps instead of North. After North bid 1-Heart. East overcalled with 2-Clubs, though he should have bid 2-Diamonds. When North then bid 2-Spades, East passed and South bid 2-No Trumps, which his partner took to game.

West led his club to the ace, the 6 fell to the king, the jack to the queen and the 9 to 10, setting up South's 8. West, having discarded the heart 2 and spade 3, now chose a diamond, which settled his hash.

Followed then the diamond ace, diamond king, spade ace and the heart queen to the singleton king and ace. The club 8, diamond 10, heart 9 and Jack and the spade king completed the hand for 4-No Trumps. Had West, on the fourth trick, discarded a spade, North's 6 would have been set up, and had he discarded a heart, North's 7 would have been good.

THEATERS

ONE of the behind-the-scenes thrillers is Ilona Massey's visit to New York City where she will meet an attorney from her native land. She hasn't seen him since she was a seamstress in a dress shop in Budapest, which was owned by his father. Then she worked from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. for a sum equal to $2 in American money. Now she is the co-star of "Balalaika" with Nelson Eddy. . . . Brenda Joyce's Christmas gift to Boy Friend Owen Ward will be a steel filing cabinet. . . . Joan Crawford won, for the second year, the award of the Hollywood news photographers for being the most co-operative of all stars. Bette Davis was runner-up. . . . Alice Faye will do a picture on the career of the late Lillian Russell, for many years the greatest and most glamorous of all American women. . . .

A New Muni.

Paul Muni, one of the few really great actors in pictures, surprises even his most devoted followers in his new characterization "We Are Not Alone." For the first time in many pictures he lays aside most of the make-up tricks and plays the sensitive, lonely English doctor whose gentleness and inate kindness lead him to a dark destiny. He is not Paul Muni, nor yet the actor who played Pasteur, Zola nor Jaurez, but an entirely new person. Jane Bryah, one of the better younger actresses appears opposite him. The picture is at the Ohio.

Haircuts All Around.

The Dead End Kids had to submit to haircuts all around before making "On Dress Parade." They have been playing tough-guy roles with shaggy, unshorn hair, but in their new picture they had to have short, military haircuts. The story is one of character-building as practiced in America's military schools. The Little Tough Guys, another group of screen bad boys, are also in the picture, which will be shown at the Madison through Tuesday.

Mr. Chips Again.

For its mid-week bill the Majestic opens tomorrow with "Good Bye, Mr. Chips," which plays Mansfield for the third time. The picture has been widely acclaimed for its artistry and human interest story. Robert Donat plays the English schoolmaster who couldn't understand boys until a woman came along who taught him how to be human. Greer Garson has the small but poignant role of the wife. On the same bill is "Boy Trouble."

Army At Soudan.

A spectacular scene in the technicolor film "Four Feathers," is the one in which the English forces go to the rescue of beleagured forces in small sail boats that ride down the Nile. The traditions of an English army family are upheld in spectacular fashion in this story of revolt in the Soudan. The daffiest of college stories is told in "$1,000 a Touchdown," which stars Martha Raye and Joe E. Brown.

Air Thriller.

There are some thrilling air scenes in "Flight At Midnight," on the Park screen. One of them shows an airman deliberately running his plane into a network of high tension wires in order to break them and thus clear the way for a crippled plane that is finishing first in the Thompson Trophy race to the Cleveland airport. Capt. Roscoe Turner heads the cast. "Adventures of Tom Sawyer" rounds out the bill.

Several of the ancient Irish clans such as the O'Lees, the O'Hickeys, the O'Shiels and O'Cassidys, had their own leech-books which contained the ancient lore of leech-healing.

OHIO STATERS TO BE HOME FOR HOLIDAYS

Richland County Will Welcome Students For Two Week Vacation; Expected In Vicinity Latter Part of Week.

IF THERE has been any doubt in your mind the last few days regarding this holiday business, all your hopes have been confirmed. Christmas is really coming—in fact it is practically here with an influx of students from nearly every college in the state and a number of those beyond the Ohio borders.

Just today the release came from Ohio State university at Columbus announcing that with the cessation of classes this week-end students in Richland county will be returning to their homes for a vacation.

Down Bellville way you'll find Wallace Buker, Dean Garber, Maurice Garber, Miss Margaret Jackson, Frank Peat, John Peat, Lowell Ridenour, Harry Sowers and Paul Spayde. John Keller, Daniel Leedy and John Leiman will holiday at Butler, while Eugene Baker will be at home in Greenwich.

Those expected in Lexington are Dexter Derrenberger, Miss Helen Ferguson, Richard Ferguson, Wayne Queen and Howard Taylor, while over at Lucas old friends will be greeting Robert Crawford and Frederick Mengert. Charles Babcock will return to his home in Plymouth.

Shelby students who will spend their vacations in this vicinity are Samuel Cashman, Donald Crabbe, Miss Doris Dick, Robert Fireoved, Robert Oates, Howard Robison, Miss Martha Stambaugh, and Miss Marjorie Wareham. Among the Shiloh collegians arriving home are Andrew Clever, R. Richard Howard and Stanley Huston.

On nearly every corner you'll be stopping to "welcome home" an Ohio State student who lives in Mansfield. Some of those expected here are William Ackerman, William Ahrendt, Miss Dona Allen, Miss Hortence Bachrach, Raymond Baker, Edward Bayman, Curtis Bechtel, Jesse Beer, Wendell Bell, Herman Bishop, David Boals, Miss Jeanne Boals, Paul Buker, Richard Casad, Richard Coe, Robert Coe, Louis Coverman, Don Crider, Gerald Dent, Robert Dent, Robert Emmer, Howard Falk, Robert Fink, George Fox, Miss Sylvia Frankel, James Garver, Rollin Gettles, Jack Gilbert, Donald Given, William Gorby, Karl Grubaugh, John Hallabrin, Robert Hammett, Frederick Hanson, Miss Jennie Heston, Edwin Jelliff, Robert Kaser, Harold Kohler, John Koman, Lars Larson, Rex Larson, John Linta, Michael Linta, William Locke, Alan Mandel, Harold McBride, Robert McCormick, Miss Ruth Meisel, Dean Miller, Robert Miller, John Nixon, Hoyt Oberlin, Nyle Orwalt, William Priess, Carl Quick, Howard Ray, Kenneth Reichert, Charles Schlegel, Robert Schmitt, Marvin Scott, Glen Seaton, Miss Jean Seybold, Miss Shirley Shaffer, Russell Shryock, Bradford Smith, Miss Clara Smith, Dale Smith, William Smith, Alfred Sneeringer, Edward Spetka, Miss Martha Spetka, Richard Stander, Miss Mary Sweet, Robert Tobias, Charles Teale, Miss Hazel Tuttle, Frank Vesper, Miss Betty Wolff and Andrew Zoll.

ENTERTAIN CLUB.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Campbell, Bowman street, entertained members of the Birthday club Saturday night with a 6 o'clock dinner. Gifts were exchanged, and the evening was spent socially. The hosts used appropriate seasonal appointments on the table. The next meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McHugh, but no date was set.

Recent Bride

—Buell-Kraft Photo.

Before her marriage, Dec. 9, Mrs. Hubert C. Brannon, above, was Miss Elizabeth Warga. She and Mr. Brannon were married at St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. The couple will reside at 58 East Third street.

Movies Shown Children At Afternoon Affair

The annual Christmas party for children of members of the American Legion and the auxiliary was held yesterday afternoon at the Legion home. After the patriotic opening the group of 150 children sang carols, and saw a four reel movie. Santa Claus then led the group to the main floor where gifts of fruit, cookies and candy were distributed around the blue and silver tree.

Mrs. Walter Beckley and the executive committee of the auxiliary were in charge. Commander R. R. James of the Legion, and Mrs. Robert Jones, president of the auxiliary, spoke briefly. Music for the afternoon was furnished by John Grabler, accordionist.

Westinghouse Girls Have Holiday Event

Members of the purchasing department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company motored to Perrysville Saturday night where they were the guests of Miss Vita Bechley for a Christmas party. The evening was spent in games and contests with prizes going to Mrs. John Winger, Miss Dorothy Van Divender, and Miss Julia BeVier.

The table at which the guests were seated for refreshments was decorated with candles and a miniature snow man. Gifts were exchanged later in the evening.

GIVEN SHOWER.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White, 340 Sturges avenue, who were married recently, were feted Saturday night by a group of 40 friends and relatives at a shower and party. The evening was spent in games and contests, and refreshments were served.

MARRIED TODAY.

At 10 o'clock today Rev. Paul H. Saleste, pastor of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church, read the single ring ceremony which united in marriage Cora Goldenetz, and Clyde V. Divelbiss, 16 North Glenn avenue. The pair was unattended.

SET DATE.

Members of the Senior high school P. T. A. will meet in the high school auditorium Wednesday night for the December session. The program will feature the A Cappella choir and the orchestra.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Couple Wedded Saturday; Will Make Home Here

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Mildred Nanich, daughter of Peter Nanich, 239 South Diamond street, to Ernest Green, son of Mrs. Anna Green, 60 Vennum avenue. The wedding was solemnized at the First Methodist church in Covington, Ky. last Saturday by Rev. Harry F. King.

The bride was attired in a Viking blue costume suit with dubonnet accessories and a shoulder corsage of American Beauty roses for the occasion. Miss Anne Nanich was her sister's only attendant, and she wore a black crepe frock, and Talisman roses and violets formed her shoulder corsage. Paul Etzwiler was Mr. Green's best man.

Later Saturday, a reception was held for the couple at the Nanich home. Mr. and Mrs. Green will make their home at 149 Park avenue east. She is employed at Fred Hall's Grocery store, while Mr. Green is an employe of the Mansfield Tile and Fireplace company.

CALLED MEETING.

Members of the Welfare club will attend a called meeting at the North Lake pavilion all-day Thursday to complete some extra comforts before Christmas, it was announced today.

Holiday Spirit Pervades City's Entertaining

—News-Journal Photos.

They start early these days with a round of holiday partying, and the two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Smaltz, Stewart avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hollingsworth, Stewart avenue, gave a Christmas party for a few of their young friends at the latter's home last week. Shown in the top picture around the table starting with the little girl at the extreme left they are Karen Lee Baker, Johnny Rist, Ronny Moore, Nancy Smaltz, Toby Constance, Sally Smaltz, Diana Earick and Tommy Hollingsworth. Another party of interest is being planned by the four women in the above photograph. They are the officers of the Hedges Mothers club and they are planning a tea tomorrow afternoon at the school. Seated at the left is Mrs. Raymond Selby, secretary; beside her is Mrs. Fred J. Stahlheber, treasurer. Mrs. Glenn Pore, vice-president is standing at the left with Mrs. Carl McCullough, president, right.

Informally Speaking...

Monday, Dec. 18.

Lucy, dear:

Your dancing feet would have been in their glory this week-end had you come over to our town for a visit—there were that many gay holiday formals Saturday night. . . . The Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority sponsored a benefit dance at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The Elks gave a dance for members and guests at the lodge hall . . . and there was also a dance at the Westinghouse. . . . But since you did miss these, Lucy, I do wish, that if you aren't too busy with the rush of Christmas, you'd come over Friday for the Beta Sigma Phi sorority formal at the hotel, because I understand it will be fine—with Tommy Van's orchestra furnishing the music for dancing.

No doubt you've heard your mother talk about Georgiana Moore, who used to do newspaper writing in Mansfield and Shelby. Georgiana (who's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Moore, formerly of Shelby and now of Daytona Beach, Fla.) is Mrs. Worthley of Jacksonville—and just last week she won first prize in a creative literary competition sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of that city. . . . Her prize-winning entry was a humorous essay, "Life Is Just So Much Poison Ivy To Me." . . . Georgiana is director of the prose group of the Jacksonville Writers' club and a member of the Jacksonville Penwomen. . . . She is an active free-lance writer and has been writing for newspapers, magazines, syndicates and trade publications for the past 16 years—being Jacksonville correspondent for a score of northern publications, including the international newspaper, The Christian Science Monitor.

* * * * *

Saturday brought with it another influx of college students to the city. . . . Barbara Brunner, Mariann Stander, Robert Fleming, John Hammer, Walter Lake, Thomas Maxwell, Richard Morgan and Willis Wygant all arrived from Granville, where they are students at Denison university.

* * * * *

ELAINE SCHILLER and Mary Helen Creamer have returned from Seton Hill college in Greensburg, Pa. to spend the holidays with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Schiller and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Creamer—Mary Helen's roommate, Rosemary Fullen is her guest for the vacation. . . . Bette Jean Horner is here for the first visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Dale Horner, since she went to Smith college at Northampton, Mass. in September. . . . Martha Moore, who's a freshman at Otterbein college, is at home with her mother, Mrs. Ida M. Moore, for the duration of the holiday season.

* * * * *

Speaking of colleges, Lucy, Margaret Hall returned to her Alma Mater, Wooster, Saturday to attend the all-college Christmas formal at Babcock hall that night. . . . You probably recall Margaret was graduated from the school last June.

* * * * *

I'M SURE you remember Mr. and Mrs. Edward Holmquist, Lucy, because they were living here about the same time you were—Mrs. Holmquist was formerly Eileen Dise and she and her husband live in Akron now. . . . Well, they're the parents of a baby girl, born just a week ago, and they've named her Sigrid Ann.

* * * * *

As I said before, I hope you can get over for the dance Friday night, because I don't suppose I'll be writing you next Monday since that's Christmas—so do have a merry one, and I'll have more news for you a little later.

With all best wishes for the holiday.

Marianne

Major Basketball Squads Go A-Hunting

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

SHREVEPORT, La.—(U.P.)—In case you have no appreciation for the classical in literature and didn't read my story the other day, you missed an analytical review of the big failures in sports during the year of 1939.

* * * * *

The orderly way in which my mind was brought up requires that I follow that gem with a monograph on the outstanding surprises in sport during this now dying year. So at this point we will observe one moment of silence for the man for whom we all expected to observe many moments of silence—Tony Galento.

* * * * *

There was no single minute throughout this dying year to compare with those few seconds when Joe Louis, the killer, was on the floor looking up at the freakish little fat man from New Jersey. Even those close to the ringside could scarce believe their eyes. Nothing in sport can match the time when the prey becomes the hunter and the hunter starts to pray. Galento may be the No. 1 screwball, but for 1939 he also was the No. 1 surprise.

* * * * *

The slightly moth-eaten grass courts of Forest Hills provided the scene for the second ranking surprise of the year. In my book, at least, skinny, scrawny, babyish Welby Van Horn, with his devastating tennis strokes, was the No. 2 sensation of 1939. Unranked and unseeded, this 18-year-old drove to the final round of the national championships, licking Jack Bromwich of Australia, and Wayne Sabin and Elwood Cooke on his way.

* * * * *

Iowa and Cornell were the two top surprises in football. The Hawkeyes, with practically the same small team they suffered with in 1938, electrified the country with major victory after major victory, including ones over Notre Dame and Minnesota. Cornell, thought to be just another group of Ivy leaguers with more manners than class, swept through undefeated, and one of its victories was a smashing win over Ohio State, mighty Big-Tenner. The walloping of Ohio State did more for the prestige of eastern football than anything in many a year.

* * * * *

Big Craig Wood, the man who never gives up, was the standout surprise in golf. A complete bust in 1938 and 1937, years which saw him fail even to qualify for the National open and P. G. A. championship, Wood regained his mastery over wood and iron and went to 36 holes in the final of the open before yielding the title to the super-hot play of Byron Nelson.

* * * * *

Brooklyn's daffy Dodgers shocked the baseball world by finishing third, which was three or four notches higher than any of the critics dreamed they would reach when the season opened. Junior Thompson, Reds' pitcher, and Ted Williams, Red Sox fence buster, were tops among the baseballers. Junior hopped from the Sally league to the world series in one season, and Williams handled a bat in a manner which brought dreams of another Babe Ruth to Owner Tom Yawkey.

* * * * *

In horse racing I'll have to take Fighting Fox's win in the Massachusetts handicap, when he licked the likes of Challedon, Pompoon, and Nedayr for the $50,000. The Fox was a rousing failure in 1938 and he paid off at a little better than 11 to 1.

Snead Wins Title

Cards a Nine-Under-Par 271 to Annex Miami Open Championship.

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Sam Snead, who said he still didn't feel "in the pink," headed back home today for a physical overhauling, after limping four times around the course in 271 strokes, just nine under par, to win $2,500 top prize in the Miami open, the year's final golf tournament.

Two strokes off the pace going into the final round, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., pro hit his stride yesterday and tied the course record with a six below par 64 and breezed home two shots in front of Harold (Jug) McSpaden, the Winchester rifle from Boston.

* * *

"I'm still not feeling exactly up to snuff," grinned Snead who had been out of tournament competition for more than a month.

Snead won the Miami open in 1937 with a record 267.

McSpaden rallied heroically with a four under par 31 on the final 9 holes for his 67 and 72 hole 273, but the recovery came too late.

* * *

Byron Nelson picked up enough points to beat out Henry Picard, the P. G. A. King, for the Harry Vardon trophy emblematic of the year's professional supremacy. Snead wound up third.

Picard won only $100 in the final tournament, a 282 score for a 14 place tie, but he finished as the year's top purse winner with $10,303. Snead moved up to second with $9,712 and Ralph Guldahl was third at $9,477.

Cobb Plays In Golf Tourney

Tyrus Raymond Cobb, baseball idol of another generation, is shown above carefully studying a putt as he plays a round in the annual Baseball players' golf tournament at Millbrae, Cal. The one-time great Detroit star now lives in California and is quite an adept amateur golfer.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By BILL KING
(Pinch Hitting for Eddie Brietz)

BOSTON—(AP)—Before the All-America's semi-centennial year dies, let's call upon Rev. Charles O. Gill of Orwell, Vt., who was rated as greater than the legendary Pudge Heffelfinger by no less an authority than the late Walter Camp, to step out of retirement long enough to take a bow.

Gill, now going on 72, played left tackle between Alonzo Stagg and Heffelfinger on Yale's 1889 team and after Camp selected that trio as the Elis' only representatives on his first All-America list, he presented the former with a trophy that reads: "To Charles O. Gill, for all-around excellence as a football player." . . . That was the season Gill won his fifth football "Y," for he was attending divinity school.

Joe Cronin isn't doing any moaning about the Red Sox' inability to come up with a much-needed star catcher. . . . He is willing to gamble with George Lacy, the youngster up from Minneapolis and the only American Association backstop to work more than 100 games last season.

* * *

Cute Casey Stengel, who seldom gives away his trade secrets, says he made a hitter out of Maxie West by making him whistle at the plate. . . . "West was much too tight, as I was when I broke in with the Giants," Casey explained. "John McGraw advised me to whistle 'Yankee Doodle' and in no time at all I was swinging as loose as a goose and getting my share of hits." . . .

Today's Guest Star: Roy Mumpton, Worcester Telegram: "If the American League's new discriminatory rule against the Yanks doesn't work, Cry Baby Clark Griffith may demand an 'over the fence is out' rule." . . .

* * *

They're getting so they like it: After battling all fall for the Harvard left guard berth, Chub Peabody, Jim Grunig and Don Lowry now are trying to beat each other out for the heavyweight's job on the Crimson's wrestling team.

Intersectional Contests Top Week's Program

Approximately 75 Headline Clashes On Card; Temple Entertains Oregon Tonight.

By BILL WHITE

NEW YORK—(AP)—The major college hoop squads don't seem to give a whoop about playing the home folks this week.

In a program that boasts some 75 headline clashes, the intersectional aspect is the important one. And there'll have to be some crazy cage calisthenics to match the contests here Saturday involving two metropolitan teams and the Oklahoma Aggies and the Oregon university Webfeet.

Metropolitan basketball writers still are trying to find adjectives to describe the thrills of the first Madison Square Garden doubleheader in which Long Island university ran up its 40th straight in an overtime, 56-55 spell-binder over Oregon, and the Oklahoma Aggies showed a world of precision-built power in overwhelming C. C. N. Y., 36-24.

Tonight at Philadelphia, the Oklahoma Aggies and Oregon play LaSalle and Temple respectively. On Saturday, Philly fans will see Santa Clara, Northern California Conference kingpin, play LaSalle and Oklahoma of the Big Six meet Temple.

Baltimore has a pair of double bills Tuesday and Saturday. Tuesday, Oregon plays Baltimore U., and the Oklahoma Aggies tangle with Duke.

At nearby White Plains Monday, Michigan meets Connecticut U. on the same bill with Rhode Island and Dayton. Most important of the metropolitan tussles pits the Long Islanders against Dayton Tuesday.

* * *

In the middle west, Princeton takes on Illinois and Northwestern—before heading east to engage Syracuse. Pittsburgh has a date with Indiana tonight, while Carnegie Tech plays Loyola at Chicago tonight and Bardley Tech in Peoria tomorrow.

Molinski, Smith to Tangle

Battle of All-America Guards Will Be Feature of Rose Bowl Contest.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Football people out here are certain of the ability of one big guard who will perform in the Rose Bowl, but all they know of another great one is purely heresay.

The one they are very familiar with is Harry Burdette Smith of the University of Southern California. The unknown quantity, so to speak, is Edward Michael Molinski of Massillon, O., more briefly identified as Ed and famous as a mainstay in the line for the oncoming Tennessee Volunteers.

Both the 215-pound Smith and the chunky Mr. Molinski were picked on the Associated Press' No. One All-America this year. This makes them lodge brothers of a sort—the sort that will try to tear each other apart New Year's day.

Smih first made himself known, and felt, in the Notre Dame game in 1937. Up to then he had been a third string standing guard. After that date he became the regular running guard, and he's been running guard—and running amuck—ever since.

Smith and Molinski both play left guard, but they'll undoubtedly come face to face during the big game. The duel should be momentous.

If S. C. has the ball and you see a squat, broad-shouldered gent sweeping out ahead of a Trojan back, look for Harry Smith.

* * *

You might also look out for whatever Tennessee man happens to be in the immediate vicinity.

Miss Burke Defends Title Here Thursday

HEYWOOD ALLEN, SR., president of the Midwest Wrestling association, announced in Louisville late yesterday that Mildred Burke of Kansas City must defend her title against Princess Rose White Cloud in Mansfield, Thursday night.

"These are the facts presented me by Princess White Cloud," Allen said, "and I have found them to be true. Matchmaker Nolan publicly stated that the winner of a bout between the Princess and Gladys Gillem would be given a contest with Miss Burke."

For some unknown reason, Nolan signed Miss Gillem instead, so I am compelled to order that Princess White Cloud be matched with the champion on Thursday night."

Advised of the order by local officials, Miss Burke said she would go through with the bout but that it would be the last time she ever appears here.

"This," she said, "is an outrage. I had planned to go back to the west coast tomorrow and now I'll have to delay it." She threw all blame for the situation on local promoters, denying that she secretly refused to wrestle the Indian girl.

* * *

Under rules of the Midwest Wrestling association, Miss Burke and the Princess will wrestle for one fall with a 60-minute time limit. The bout will share top honors with the light-heavyweight duel between Kimon Kudo of Japan and Davey Reynolds of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, carded for action in the armory.

One other bout will be added to the card.

BARONS LICK PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—(INS)—The Cleveland Barons had Ossie Asmundsen and Goalie Moe Roberts to thank today for their first victory since Nov. 25. Asmundsen, a right winger who had not seen action in several weeks until Saturday night against Syracuse, and Roberts were the big guns in Cleveland's defeat of Providence, 2 to 1, last night.

Martin Sets Scoring Pace In Cage Loop

Bellville Center Averages 16 Points Per Game in County Circuit.

Bill Martin, Bellville high's lanky center, apparently, is out to establish a new individual scoring mark in the Richland county basketball league this year.

The undefeated Bluejays' high-scoring ace has appeared in only three county circuit tussles, but is leading the pack with 49 points, an average of better than 16 per game.

* * *

Bob Shaffer of Lexington, who has performed in one more contest than Martin, is in the runner-up spot with 40 points, while Dick Grubb, Butler center, holds third place with 35 markers. Grubb has also played four games. Players scoring 20 or more points follow:

Honors for Iowa's Nile Kinnick Still Roll In.

CHICAGO—(AP)—The football season is a thing of the past, but the honors still roll in for Nile Kinnick, Iowa's great triple-threat All-America back. The week-end brought him the award as the western conference's most valuable player in a poll of coaches and officials conducted annually by the Chicago Tribune. Kinnick will receive a silver football, actual size. Tom Harmon of Michigan, another fine back, was second.

RESUMES INQUIRY

CHICAGO—(INS)—The Illinois athletic commission was to resume its inquiry today into alleged admissions by heavyweight Harry Thomas that he "threw" rights to Max Schmeling and Tony Galento. Nate Lewis, former manager of Thomas, was expected to be questioned. He already has denied publicly that the two fights were not on the level.

DE SALES WINS

TOLEDO—(UP)—De Sales college of Toledo defeated Assumption college 45 to 37 Sunday in their opening Michigan-Ontario conference basketball game.

Vander Meer, Wildcat Grid Team Picked as Year's Big 'Flops'

Cincinnati Pitcher, Northwestern Finish In Tie In A-P Poll of Sports Writers.

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK—(AP)—The most resounding "flop" in 1939 sports, the country's sports editors decided today, was a toss-up between the collapse of Johnny Vander Meer's double-no hit pitching arm and the gridiron woes of Northwestern's Wildcats.

Voting in the Associated Press' ninth annual poll on the year's biggest disappointment, the experts came up with a point tie in trying to discover which took the biggest nose dive.

Vander Meer was voted the No. 1 upset on 11 of the 74 ballots and Northwestern drew the top spot on nine, but on a point basis—three for a first place selection, two for second and one for third—they were deadlocked at 37 points.

* * *

Vander Meer, after shattering all pitching records in 1938 with two straight no-run, no-hit performances as a rookie with the Cincinnati Reds and winding up with 15 freshman victories, ran into a combination of the sophomore jinx and an assortment of ailments this year. He finished the season with only five victories and nine setbacks and tossed only eight complete games.

* * *

Northwestern's well-publicized Bill De Correvont and company were hailed as a sure-fire hit in Big Ten circles, with championship possibilities. Yet, the Wildcats turned out to be wild only at the dinner table, won only three of eight games and were blanked in four.

* * *

Third on the list of disappointments came the Cincinnati Reds and their sorry world series showing.

'Y' Cage Team Breaks Even

Splits Doubleheader With Crestline Clubs.

Basketeers of the Mansfield Y. M. C. A. broke even in a doubleheader with Crestline quintets on the 'Y' court Saturday night.

Led by Shade and Fogle, who tallied 10 points apiece, Mansfield defeated the Crestline Y. M. C. A., 33 to 19, in the opener, but suffered a 29 to 27 beating from the Eagles in the second game.

* * *

Mansfield gained the lead in the second period in turning back the Crestline club in the initial affray. The Eagles annexed the second when Fritz Gottfried scored his only basket in the final minute. King, Eagles' guard, set the individual pace with 12 points.

NEWARK BEARS WIN TITLE

NEWARK, N. J.—(UP)—The Newark Bears held the American Professional Football association championship today. The Bears, after slipping behind in the second period, trounced the Paterson Panthers, 27-7 yesterday before 16,000.

CHICAGO KEGLER ROLLS 18 STRIKES IN TOURNEY

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Bowling enthusiasts were still talking today about the 18 strikes that Herb Freitag, Chicago bowling ace, clipped off in capturing the all-events title of the central states tournament which closed last night.

Freitag got a spare, then slammed the maples for 11 strikes to count a 278 opening game. Seven more times he swept the alleys before missing, finishing the second game with 257. A 187 final game kept Freitag from capturing the single title by five pins.

CAPTURE TITLE

AKRON—(AP)—All Class A championships in the Women's Central States Bowling tournament were held today by Cincinnatians. Catherine Burling led the parade with 652 in singles, 1,814 in all-events, and she was a member of the Catham Shoe Repairs

Miscellaneous For Sale

Xmas Trees
3500 on hand. Open daily until 9 p. m. All Mansfield people know Estes has the trees at the right prices from last year's experience. We guarantee our trees. We are th biggest dealer in the city. We sell at wholesale prices only to you. Why?—Because we buy direct—there is no middle man to share the profits—so you save. We have to please you! Why?—because we expect to sell trees every Christmas—not here in Mansfield this Christmas and some other town next Christmas. Go see other trees first, then come down and see our trees and compare prices—then you'll know why you should buy from Estes. Remember—if you buy a tree before you see ours—you're not thrifty. Give the kids a treat—let them see hundreds of Christmas trees here and we'll promise you that you'll buy before you leave. Hoping to see and serve you at these locations: Super Market, 5th & Mulberry, Ashland Road across from Armory, Bowman St., opposite new A. & P. Market. We deliver.

HE TAKES HAND

Complainant In Court Case Says He Objects to Goings on.

ROANOKE, Va. —(AP)— While the defendant, charged with drawing a pistol on another, was being tried, the complainant listened to lawyers argue until he got the hang of things. Then, when the defendant denied the charge, the complainant rose from his seat and interposed: "Your honor, please, I object to all that."

The judge warned the complainant he must be quiet or go to jail himself.

YOU NEVER KNOW

DENVER—(AP)—Of all places, Bailiff Norman Cobb thought his lunch would be safest in his desk in the county courtroom. But somebody stole it during a court session.

PRICES RAGGED NEAR SECOND HOUR IN MART

Specialties Attract Buyers, But Many Leaders Are Ignored; Commodities Point Higher.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Specialties attracted buyers in today's stock market but many leaders were ignored. Prices were a bit ragged near the second hour.

Among favored issues were International Paper common and preferred, Allied Chemical, Curtiss-Wright, Anaconda, Kennecott, N. Y. Central, Goodrich and Goodyear.

Earnings reports continued cheering and lightness of stock offerings was a hopeful factor.

Bonds did little either way. Commodities again pointed higher. Foreign securities markets were moderately firm.

Market followers found some comfort in steel surveys which indicated consumption of the metal well maintained and heavy deliveries expected to continue through the year-end.

The magazine "Steel" said smaller volume of new business, reflecting previous forward coverage, was permitting some reduction in backlogs. Warehouse sales were understood to be declining more slowly than usual in a number of districts.

LAST RITES FOR LANTZ TUESDAY

Former Mayor Dies at Age 72 After Long Illness; Served During Depression Days.

field during the hectic depression days of 1932 through 1935, having served two terms. Prior to that he was councilman-at-large one term, being elected on the Democratic ticket in 1927 in his first venture into politics.

Besides his wife, Miriam, he is survived by a son, Lyman at home, and two brothers William of Elyria, and Clyde of Lexington.

Mr. Lantz was born in Nashville, Mich., Aug. 12, 1867, the son of Benjamin Franklin and Josephine Lantz. His father was a shoe manufacturer and moved his business to Lexington where Mr. Lantz grew up and attended the Lexington schools. After he graduated from high school he clerked in a Lexington store before coming to Mansfield in 1889.

He spent five years in the grocery store of Roy Antibus, later purchasing the business in 1894. He continued in the grocery business at the corner of Marion and Vennum avenue until his retirement in 1924.

Later he was named secretary of the Independent Grocers Institute, a position he held four years.

He was a member of St. Luke's Lutheran church, the Eagles, Elks, and Odd Fellows lodges and the Sons of Veterans.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley recalled today that it was during Mr. Lantz' first term that relief became a municipal problem and the first city relief office was established in city hall.

"I believe the man gave away more than he earned during those four years," Kelley said. "I have seen him dig down in his pocket many a time and hand a needy person money."

KILLS OWN BABY

Woman Admits Dismembering Son She Couldn't Rear.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — A newspaper puzzle contest returned a murder charge instead of a prize award today for a 35-year-old mother, who, Detective Capt. James Ryan said, confessed suffocating her 20-month-old son, sawing up his body and hiding the torso, wrapped in the newspaper, near a cemetery.

Ryan quoted the woman, Mrs. Tillie Irelan, as saying she smothered the baby Wednesday night with a blanket and pillow. Saturday she dismembered the boy and carried the torso to the cemetery, a block away.

She told police she had been separated from her husband. Unable to obtain steady work as a children's governess, she said she decided she could not rear the boy.

Pencil impressions of a name and address, written under a picture puzzle in the newspaper covering the torso led detectives to the woman.

Japs to Meet U. S. Demands on Yangtze River Trade

PROMISE MADE TO ENVOY AT TOKYO PARLEY

Move Seen as Attempt to Ease Tension in View of Trade Treaty's Expiration.

(By United Press)

TOKYO—Japan moved today to placate American official and private opinion and promised that the Yangtze river in China would be reopened to international trade. It was regarded as part of an effort to forestall expiration of the American-Japanese commercial accord next month.

During a 90 minutes conference with United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew, Foreign Minister Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura promised to reopen the main trade artery of China, a step long demanded by the United States.

The conference, Nomura's third with Grew since he returned from consultations in Washington, was described as "most conciliatory."

The conciliatory attitude of the Japanese was linked by observers directly with the fact that the American-Japanese commercial treaty, denounced by the United States in protest against trade restrictions imposed by the Japanese military in China, expires Jan. 26.

The Japanese, it was believed, hope that by meeting many American demands, the treaty can be renewed or extended or that the United States will agree to an arrangement permitting continuation of normal Japanese-American commercial relations after Jan. 26.

Nomura told Grew that some military necessities had kept control of the Yangtze in military hands but said that military and naval authorities now were willing to reopen the river to third power shipping as far upstream as Nanking. He indicated that with restoration of peaceful conditions the river would be reopened above Nanking, perhaps as far as Hankow and later even into Szechuan province.

It was learned that in addition to meeting American demands regarding the Yangtze, Nomura told Grew that individual American damage claims against the Japanese in China were being settled. Grew appeared cheerful when he left the conference to go to the embassy to draft his report to Washington.

Reopening of the Yangtze was expected to improve Japan's relations with France and Britain as well as with the United States.

OPEN SERIES

Shelby Churches Start Christmas Programs Sunday.

SHELBY—The first of a series of Christmas programs and services in the Shelby churches were given Sunday at First Methodist and First Church of Christ churches

At First Methodist church, the annual Christmas program given by the children of the Sunday school department, was presented at the morning unified service. The program consisted of songs and recitations by the students of the junior, primary and intermediate departments.

At the evening service at First Methodist church, the 30-voice choir directed by Howard Wildman sung the Christmas portion of Handel's, "The Messiah." The accompanists were Mrs. Otto Shoup at the organ and Mrs. Howard Wildman on the piano. Charles Ireland of Mansfield played a violin solo

The Joy Bell Ringers of Columbus presented a program of Christmas music at the evening service at First Church of Christ. Musical glasses, vibraharp, musical saw and other instruments were played by this group.

MOTHER JAILED

Charged With Failing to Abide by Order to Care for 3 Children.

Cited for contempt after she allegedly failed to abide by a probate court order to care for her three children, Mrs. Elizabeth Lee, 42, Ninth avenue, was held in the county jail today.

Arrested several weeks ago on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her children, Mrs. Lee was placed on probation and ordered to provide a home for her children, Judge C. J. Anderson said.

education for four years, beginning in 1908, and in 1909 he was chosen clerk, a post he held until his death. In 1908 he started the board of education movement which turned the city school grounds over to children for playgrounds when school was not in session.

He handled most of the clerical work connected with the city's new million-dollar school building program and looked forward eagerly to seeing the two new junior high schools completed.

Active in the county and state dental societies since he began practicing dentristry about 1900, Dr. Bristor was secretary-treasurer of the Central Ohio Dental society and a member of the dental health education committee of the Ohio State Dental society at his death. He was a graduate of the Ohio Medical university at Columbus in 1899.

Headed Dental Society.

He had previously been president of the Central Ohio Dental society and during the past 25 years had served on a number of important committees of the state society. He was considered an authority on the history of the dental profession in Ohio and had written a number of articles for dental magazines.

During the World war he was secretary of the Richland-Ashland counties unit of the Preparedness League of American Dentists, an organization which provided free dental services for soldiers leaving for France.

A member of the First Presbyterian church for 50 years, Dr. Bristor was president of the Mansfield Christian Endeavor union when he launched the movement to place public drinking fountains in the downtown area. The organization purchased four of the fountains and erected them at busy intersections.

He was ordained an elder of the First Presbyterian church in April, 1937. He was superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday school from 1930 to 1935 and held a number of offices in the church.

Dr. Bristor was active in the Masonic and K. of P. lodges and in 1911 was master of Mansfield lodge No. 35, F. and A. M. He belonged to the Mansfield chapter No. 28, R. A. M.; Mansfield council No. 94, R. and S. M.; Mansfield Commandery No. 21, Knights Templar, and Madison lodge, No. 26, K. of P.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Carr Bristor; a daughter, Mrs. Robert Gressmer, Mansfield; one granddaughter, Marilyn Gressmer and two sisters, Mrs. James Bailey of Mansfield, and Mrs. Fred J. Leopold of Wooster.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday in the First Presbyterian church with Rev. David N. Roller officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. The body will be at the Wappner Funeral Home until 10 a. m. Wednesday.

Mansfield dentists will attend the funeral services in a group.

FIRE CHIEF DIES FIGHTING BLAZE

Piqua Official Collapses With Heart Attack As Mill Burns.

PIQUA, O.—An early morning blaze in a three-story brick feed mill caused the death today of veteran Fire Chief P. J. Caulfield and caused damage estimated at more than $100,000.

Caulfield collapsed of a heart attack while directing firemen from Piqua and nearby cities who were called as the blaze, discovered at 2 a. m., threatened to spread to nearby buildings.

However, it was confined to the mill, operated by the Holland Mills company.

THREE HURT IN AUTO CRASHES

2 Mansfielders Suffer Minor Injuries; 19 Lose Lives in State Accidents.

Three persons, including two Mansfielders, suffered minor cuts and bruises in three acicdents reported in this vicinity over the week-end while throughout Ohio 19 persons were killed in traffic accidents.

Injured near here were Mrs. H. G. Dunson, 58, 505 South Main street, Carl Heitz, 131 Glessner avenue, and Mrs. Elsie Zent, 47, of Findlay.

Mrs. Dunson suffered body bruises when a machine driven by her husband Horace, 64, collided at 7:20 a. m. Sunday on route 39, one mile northwest of Mansfield, with a car driven by John M. Perry, 31, R. D. 1, Mansfield, highway patrolmen reported. Dunson's car was struck as he came out of Bellemont avenue onto the highway, patrolmen said.

Heitz suffered face lacerations when a car in which he was riding, and driven by A. E. Heitz of the same address, collided with a car operated by C. H. Sunnucks, R. D. 5, Ashland, at 4:30 p. m. Sunday on route 545 at Epworth.

Mrs. Zent received body bruises when the car driven by her husband, Chester, 47, struck the rear of a parked truck at 6 p. m. Saturday, four miles north of Mansfield on route 42. The truck was driven by Paul Dilgard, 17, of Ashland.

In state traffic, five lives were snuffed out when Louis C. Rupp, 43, drove his automobile into the path of the speeding New York Central passenger train, Commodore Vanderbilt, in Lakewood. Other victims were Mrs. Blanche Spanos, 43, and her three daughters, Mary 18, Jean 13 and Donna Louise, six months. All were killed instantly.

Miss Gertrude Kay, 55, of Alliance, noted author, artist and illustrator, died in a Youngstown hospital from injuries suffered last Tuesday night in an accident near Canfield. An automobile-bus collision at Columbus killed Betty Melvin, 14, and Richard Figlestahler, 16, both of Columbus. Mrs. Catherine Wallet, 58, was injured fatally in a three-car collision at Akron, and Dean Harrell, 13, met death in a head-on crash at Bedford, near Cleveland.

2 LOSE LIVES IN PEN'S CHAIR

Youths Who Confessed Slaying Watchmen Pay Penalty.

BELIEFONTE, Pa. — (AP) — Without uttering a word, two Philadelphia colored youths died in Pennsylvania's electric chair early today for killing a watchman with a cuspidor during an attempted robbery.

James Fuller, 25, and Fletcher Legrand, 22, both turned down the request of the Rev. C. F. Lauer, Rockview penitentiary chaplain, that they repeat the Twenty-Third Psalm after him.

Fuller and Legrand, one-time bootblacks, had pleaded guilty to slaying John Heyworth, 70, watchman in a Philadelphia store.

BLAZE KILLS 5

Youths Burn to Death When Fire Sweeps Dormitory.

AUGUSTA Ga. — (AP) — Five youths were burned to death when fire swept a reconditioned barn used as a dormitory at the Georgia State School for feeble minded children near Gracewood a few miles from Augusta early today.

Dr. E. H. Schwall, superintendent of the school, asid the dead were: Floyd Lyttle, 15, of Savannah; Hoyt Cook, 15, of Atlanta; William Youmans, 22, of Valdosta; Curtis Sargeant, 17, of Gainesville, Ga.; Curwood Creech, age unknown, of Augusta. Two others were injured critically.

Dr. Schwall said the fire started in a linen room on the first floor of the dormitory, also used as the school's laundry.

There were 24 boys in the dormitory, he said, and several escaped by sliding down outside piping while others jumped to safety. The flames were discovered about 1:30 a. m.

CONDITION 'FAIR'

Community Fund Head's Injuries 'Not Serious,' Hospital Says.

The condition of Sidney L. Palmer, 213 West First street, executive secretary of the Mansfield Community fund, who suffered a possible skull fracture Saturday night when struck by an automobile at Park avenue east and Franklin avenue, remained "fair" at noon today, hospital attendants reported.

Hospital attendants said Palmer was not seriously hurt, and that X-rays had not been taken as yet to determine the extent of his injuries, because of his condition.

Palmer was struck by a Shelly Smith auto-wrecker, driven by Harry Simmons, 113 West Third street, police said.

PEACE THROUGH CO-OPS, HOPE OF FINNISH LEADER

Besieged Nation's Foreign Minister Heads Finland's Growing Economic Plan.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Little Finland, in battling Russia, has put her foreign relations in the hands of a man who believes in world peace through economic co-operation.

Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner is general manager of Finland's Elanto Co-Operative Society and president of the International Co-Operative Alliance.

The alliance has 70,000,000 members in the United States and 37 other countries, all small stockholders in co-operative businesses which supply their living needs. It is growing each year, and its hope is eventually to have enough members in all countries to control the bulk of the world's commerce and weld a system of entirely unfettered free trade.

Once that ideal was accomplished, Tanner and his followers argue, the big reason for war would be gone because nations no longer would need to fight for their rightful share of business, and each land would be peaceful at home because the standard of living would be higher all around.

The movement is stronger in Finland than anywhere else. It accounts for 30 per cent of the total wholesale and retail trade of the country—40 per cent of the retail trade in food and household goods. More than half the families in Finland belong to it.

Co-operatives took root in Finland in 1899, fifty-five years after the weavers of Rochdale gave birth to the idea in England. The first Finish co-op had 430 members and $40,000 capital. In 1936, the year covered by President Roosevelt's commission for the study of co-operatives in Democratic countries, the Finish co-ops did $73,000,000 worth of business.

Foreign Minister Tanner heads the "progressive" branch of the co-op movement in Finland, which has 122 societies and over 306,000 members. (There is also a "neutral" branch, with 147 societies and over 300,000 members.) He is general manager of the great consumer society (55,000 members) in Helsinki, "Elanto."

"Elanto" does a $10,000,000 business in 329 shops — bakeries, meat shops, drug stores, boot shops, clothing stores, restaurants, and a large department store. Some of these shops are near the Helsinki central station, which was bombed during the Russians' first air raid.

DRIVER, 67, FINED

Shelby Autoist Assessed $100 on Intoxication Charge.

A Shelby driver charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol was one of the four autoists arrested by state highway patrolmen over the week-end.

He is John C. Fish, 67, who pleaded guilty before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court and was fined $100 and costs. His driving rights were revoked for one year.

Robert Palm, 21, Mansfield, pleaded guilty to a charge of unsafe driving and was fined $10 and costs and his operator's permit suspended for 30 days.

Fish was arrested on route 39 and Palm on U. S. route 42.

Pleading guilty to a charge of operating his car with insufficient lights, Jesse L. Baith, Akron, was fined $5 and costs.

Kenneth Grenling, 21 of 163 South Mulberry street, paid a $2 fine after pleading guilty to permitting an unlicensed operator to drive his car.

FUNERAL TODAY

ASHLAND — Funeral services for James William Sisson, 66, who died at Samaritan hospital Friday, were held today at the church of the Nazarene with Rev. C. E. Ryder officiating. Burial was in Ashland cemetery.

Mr. Sisson, a native of Hillsdale, Mich., was born April 16, 1873, but had lived most of his life in Ashland. He was married to Clara Friend, who preceded him in death 24 years ago, in 1901. He also was preceded in death by his second wife, Mrs. Myrtle Troup Sisson, in 1922.

He is survived by a son, Chester of Perrysville; a daughter, Mrs. Melvin Hammett of Mansfield; two brothers, George Sisson of Adario and L. D. Sisson of Auburn, Ind.

DENVER—(NS)—Wilberforce J. Whiteman, father of Paul Whiteman, famous orchestra leader, was dead today, the victim of a lingering illness. He was 82.

TAKEN TO LIMA

Body of Mansfielder Who Ended Own Life Buried Today.

The body of Harley Chamberlain, 48, of 47 South Adams street, who took his life Saturday night, was removed to Lima today for funeral services and burial. He formerly lived in Lima.

Mr. Chamberlain, formerly an employe of the Humphryes Manufacturing company, took poison in front of his home Saturday night following a quarrel with his wife. Besides his wife, he is survived by three children.

HUNT CLUES IN $1,000 ROBBERY

Insurance Office Looted by Burglars Entering Through Rear Window.

BUCYRUS—Police Chief Arthur Stuckert is making a careful investigation in an attempt to find clues which will lead to the arrest of the person or persons who entered the Crawford County Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance company, 114 South Walnut street, and stole approximately $1,000 in cash and checks.

Entrance was gained by prying open a window at the rear of the office which is on the ground floor. The cash and checks were taken from a box in the safe on which the combination had been picked.

SING CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BUCYRUS—Old familiar Christmas carols and hymns made up the program for the second annual community Christmas sing held in the high school auditorium Sunday afternoon.

Dr. A. D. Bumstead, director of the Bucyrus made chorus, assisted in directing the singing with Rev. C. D. Osborn and Rev. George A. Hickson. Accompanists were Ruth Ludwig, Edwin Norton and John Osborn, pianists, and Mrs. Earl Ackerman and Mrs. Charles Emig, accordionists.

A brief Yule message was delivered by Rev. David Mumford of St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Sponsors of the affair were the Bucyrus male chorus, the Bucyrus Ministerial association and the Y's Men's club.

WOODLAND FIRE ROUTS SIX IN EARLY MORNING

Defective Fireplace Blamed for Blaze at Van Derau Home; Loss $2,000.

Fire which broke out in the home of Clarence L. Van Derau, Andover road, routed six members of the family out into the early morning cold.

The blaze, which smouldered through the second floor partitions, was believed to have started from a defective fireplace in the penthouse, firemen said.

The damage, most of which resulted from water and firemen's efforts to reach to the fire in the walls, was estimated at "at least $2,000" by Van Derau.

Under the direction of Capt. Paul Young, companies Nos. 1 and 3 laid two hose lines to the house. They fought the fire for two and a half hours.

Awakened By Smoke.

The blaze was discovered at 3:20 a. m. when Van Derau was awakened from his sleep by smoke which filled the house. He roused his wife, three daughters and son, all sleeping, who went to the home of a neighbor.

Van Derau said the alarm was sent from a nearby house after he had discovered that telephone wires had been burned off.

The residence was built by the Westinghouse company six years ago as an experimental house and was known as the "House of Tomorrow" because all the latest electrical developments had been installed in it. Van Derau, works manager at Westinghouse, purchased the home several years ago.

RUNS FOR POST

BUCYRUS—S. K. Sollars of Sulphur Springs school superintendent, is a candidate for the Class 1 seat on the district athletic board of the Northwestern district, which will be filled by the Ohio High School Athletic association this month. Sollars is paired with Olen J. Clough of Walbridge.

Results of the election, on which balloting will be done this month, will be announced January 6.

Santa and the TALKING DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Eric and Elsa and the white fox are taken prisoners at the castle of Westphalia after coming through a chain of magic mountains. They are seeking Leezen, a doll, but she has run away to look for Eric.

CHAPTER 13

The Cave.

ERIC and the fox and Elsa had to sit all day locked in a tower room in the castle of Westphalia.

But the fox nibbled and chewed at the rope binding Eric's hands. Just at dusk the rope broke and Eric whipped out his flute and began to play a beautiful cradle song.

His tune flew out of the window on a little breeze and was carried down into the windows of the banquet hall where the King sat eating alone.

He was disturbed because Leezen, the doll, was gone. Now he looked up with a pleased smile at Eric's flute song.

"Quick," said the King to a guardsman at the door. "Find that musician and bring him here." So in a few minutes Eric and the fox and Elsa walked into the banquet hall.

"Pray who are you?" asked the King. "Your music is sweet and clear."

Eric told him the story of Leezen. The King shook his head and looked puzzled. He said, "I am looking for her, too. Or I should be. She was gone when I woke."

"Gone!" exclaimed Eric. "What can have happened? We must seek her."

"Have patience," said the King. "I shall send guardsmen out over all the roads."

LOOKING FOR LEEZEN

So guardsmen were sent out to ride swiftly over all the kingdom to find Leezen. Eric and the King and Elsa sat all night and talked. But when dawn came all the guards returned discouraged. They hadn't heard a word of Leezen.

Then the white fox spoke. He said, "Eric let me look. Maybe the guardsmen thundered down the roads so fast they saw nothing."

"I shall be grateful," said Eric.

In a twinkling the trolls came running out of the cave.

So the fox loped off so fast he looked like a moving sunbeam. He didn't take the high roads. He slipped quietly through the woods asking first of a flock of crows, "Have you seen a doll called Leezen?"

The oldest crow said, "No. But keep going north." So the fox ran on. Then he met an ermine trailing through the white snow. The ermine said, "Keep going north." So the fox went on. Then he saw a bright red cardinal sitting high on a pine tree. The cardinal said, "I can see down the next hill. There are three trolls digging, ask them."

CORNFLOWERS

So the fox ran on. When he saw the trolls he hid behind a tree to watch. Then he grinned so he showed all his pointed teeth. Each one of the trolls was wearing a blue cornflower. And you remember Leezen wore cornflowers in her hair.

So the fox watched the trolls all afternoon and when they turned homeward he followed. They came to their cave and disappeared. Then the fox wheeled around and ran so swiftly back to the King's palace that his feet left no marks on the snow.

"Eric," he cried as he leaped into the banquet hall. "Come. I think I have found her." There was great excitement in the banquet hall. The King loaned Eric his fur robe. And the old woman kissed Eric on the forehead. Then Eric and the fox started back for the trolls' cave.

When they arrived at the cave Eric winked mischievously at the fox, held his flute to his lips and played a strange tune. It sounded like coins falling on each other, "Clink, clink, clink." In a twinkling the trolls came running out of the cave, but they didn't see Eric behind a tree.

Eric stepped slowly backward through the woods playing, "Clink, clinkety, clink." And the trolls ran round and about crying, "Gold, gold. There's gold dropping from the skies." They ran on and on, and for all I know they are still running. But Eric circled back to the cave to seek Leezen.

TOMORROW: A task is set for Eric and Leezen.

'Man On Trapeze' Attracts Crowd of 7,269 In One Day

That "Man on the Flying Trapeze" in the mechanical circus at the Cochran Paint store, 12 East Third street, was a popular fellow Saturday.

He drew an overflowing audience all day and at the end of the last show at night, 7,269 persons by actual count had seen his performance. That's about one-sixth of the population of Mansfield.

The mechanical show, which occupies the entire first floor of the Cochran store, is free to the public. Performances will be continous daily until Christmas.

A mechanical audience watches "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" perform and some of the folks in the crowd are about as funny as the performer.

Most of the store's stock has been moved to the basement of the building, and no merchandise is being offered for sale this week.

"Vendol Is Worth A Fortune To Me," Says Mansfield Lady

"I feel so much better since taking this Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine that I advise everyone to try it." Relieved dizziness, coated Tongue, stomach upsets, and other troubles due to constipation.

MRS. ADREW JOHNSON

The outstanding success of Vendol in Mansfield and nearby vicinity continues with an ever-increasing demand for this celebrated medicine, as more and more well known men and women tell of its remarkable powers. Out of heartfelt gratitude, and a sincere desire to help other sufferers, people in all walks of life are publicly praising this great medicine made from extracts of roots and herbs with alkalines added for extra benefits. People who had suffered for years from constipation which caused sour, acid indigestion, biliousness, cramps, aches and pains, sick headaches, and other associated inorganic complaints, tell of the amazing relief Vendol gives.

Mrs. Andrew Johnson of 34 Winwood Drive, Mansfield, whose husband is employed at Westinghouse, happily tells how this famous medicine relieved her after being disappointed with everything tried.

"I suffered miseries owing to constipation which made me so nervous that I seldom got a full night's rest. It also caused so much sour stomach, gas, bloating, and distress after meals that I dared not eat certain foods.

"The constipation made me so bilious and I'd have such dizzy spells that I often had to hold something to steady myself till they passed over. I dreaded extra activity because it seemed to tire me out so badly.

"I tried different medicines, but for all the good they did I might as well have saved my money. It was a lucky day for me when I started taking Vendol, and it was amazing how quickly it acted.

"Vendol soon relieved my constipation: then all my other troubles passed off, and this has left me feeling like myself once more and enjoying my meals with no more distress. My advice to anyone in the same condition I was in is to get Vendol at once."

Why not do what thousands right here at home have done; that is, give Vendol a chance to help you. Come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., and let the Vendol Man tell you all about this great Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine. All druggists sell it.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1939.

The totalitarian idea is that any territory you want is yours by divine right.

Anyhow, if the office is seeking the man, Mr. Dewey is making himself easy to find.

Why not make either the razing or the replacement of the B. & O. depot a major project for Boy Scouts next year? Adult organizations don't seem to be able to do anything about it.

Sources of Finnish Strength

SOMETIMES it is the "imponderables" that win or lose a war—things that cannot be weighed or measured, such as patriotism, loyalty, self-respect and efficiency.

Some of these intangible sources of strength have appeared in the Finnish-Russian war. The masters of great Russia thought they were going to wade through Finland, killing and blasting and burning, as their Nazi partners had done in Poland. But they were about as far wrong as any outfit of international gangsters in history.

The Finns were prepared for war and the Russians were not. The Finns were animated by fierce patriotism and the Russians were a herd that didn't know what they were fighting for. The Finns deserved, and instantly won, the world's respect, and the Russians met with universal contempt.

The Bolsheviks may yet overwhelm Finland, if other free countries do not rush supplies and reinforcements. But the big job, the job that most needed doing in Europe, has already been done by that little nation of stout-hearted, self-respecting, democratic Finns.

They have shown that vast, red Russia is still incompetent, and that Stalin is only good at killing Russians.

Hope Springs Eternal

HOPE is among the most widely distributed of human attributes and is made to serve many purposes.

It is a companion of faith, a comforter in times of sorrow, a blockade against despair, a stimulant to sustained effort, and—possibly in its worst manifestation—a lure to expectation of attaining fortune by winning in a game of chance.

Thousands will put aside other engagements to flock to a theater "bank night" on the remote chance of being the winner; other thousands will anxiously await a telephone call announcing that they are the "pot of gold" winner from among the millions whose names are listed; others buy a sweepstakes ticket, play the numbers racket, poker sheets, punch boards or slot machines, always hopeful that, in spite of the tremendous odds against them, they will win "the next time."

The money lost each year in gambling of various kinds in the United States would go far toward assuring the economic independence of that third of the population which is referred to as "ill-clothed, ill-housed and ill-fed."

Sing for Enjoyment and Health

MEYER BERGER, the rambling reporter who learns and writes "About New York" for the Times, spent a recent evening with the People's Chorus, a group that has been singing for more than twenty years. It was started by a man who came to this country from Athens. Mr. Camilieri leads and conducts apparently because he likes to. Incidentally he believes that music is good for body and spirit.

"Why does not the world give to healthy things?" he asked the reporter, "Why do they not sing? That is the sickness of the world. Everyone must sing. It is good for the spirit."

Various people in the chorus, old and young, housewives, a cab driver, a business man, a crippled girl, a furniture polisher, and others, talked to the reporter. They, too, found something wholesome in singing together. As one of them explained, "It's the people. To sing with people is beautiful."

They were singing Christmas carols on the evening of the reporter's visit, as millions of Americans will be doing through this season. They were serious about it, but obviously they loved it. All were there voluntarily for companionship and recreation and the chance to let out the voice in song.

Expect Business Betterment

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE in one large city has just taken a poll of several hundred business executives, in which it asked whether they expected business to be better in the first quarter of 1940 than in the same period of 1939.

More than four-fifths of them said yes. Only 2 per cent thought their business would be worse. A small minority thought it would be the same as this year.

The optimism of the majority is echoed around the country. On the face of things it seems to be a fair guess. And such optimistic guesses help at least a little to realize themselves. The man, group or community that expects success has a better chance than one that doesn't. This may not be an economic law, but it's a law of human nature.

Typically American

AT LEAST one phase of America's national defense system is equalled by no other nation, according to William Allen White, "the sage of Emporia, Kansas," who recently pointed out that life insurance is the bulwark of free government in this country.

"American life insurance," he observed, "is in reality a front line trench of democracy. Our American life insurance brings self-respecting old age to millions. It stimulates education. It removes the sting of poverty from widows and children. It maintains a level of consumers' cash. . . . It fills and refills a vast pool of credit which is the life of American business. This could have been done only in a democratic republic."

This is more than a testimonial to life insurance. It is a testimonial to the greatness of America and her people.

Southern States Benefit

THE PAPER scarcity threatened by Canada's war involvement and the loss of paper and pulp supplies from Scandinavia, provides a new stimulus for the production of southern print paper. A big plant built at Lufkin, Texas, is about to start operation.

There is a big opportunity in the use of yellow southern pine, especially slash pine, for this purpose, since chemical processes have been devised to make it available. It means the creation of a new and profitable market in the coastal southern states.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Jan Kiepura, the Polish tenor of the Metropolitan opera company who was demobilized by his government so that he could fulfill concert and operatic engagements in this country and in Canada, turned into a haberdashery the other day to invest in a pair of gloves. The shop was on Fifth avenue. The clerk looked the distinguished foreigner over.

"How much?" Kiepura inquired.

"Ten dollars."

"What," cried Kiepura, aghast. "Why, in Switzerland or France for ten dollars I could buy a villa."

"I know," murmured the clerk, "but who'd live there?"

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Dec. 18, 1919.

Customary notice of extension of tax-paying period to Jan. 20 was given by County Treasurer F W. Wolfe.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Newlon, Blanche street.

Miss Dorothea Tomlinson and H. Emerson Murphy were married by Rev. Arthur T. Reasoner.

It was announced that Harold Painter and Miss Helen Keffer had been married in Detroit in July.

Mrs. H. V. Loder was called to Hayesville by the death of her father, William Ciphers.

Cold weather hampered railroad passenger and freight service and resulted in coal shortage here, because of delayed shipments.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Dec. 18, 1934.

W. L. Early was elected president of Mansfield Master Plumbers' association, succeeding W. E. Antrican.

Miss Helen Brown, student at Smith college, Northampton, Mass., was visiting her mother, Mrs Edson Brown, West Fourth street.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, 344 North Mulberry street.

Members of three Mansfield Girl Scout troops united for a rally at First Congregational church.

Cupid was reported "as busy as Santa Claus," with eight marriage licenses were issued here in one day.

Mrs. Belle Beach, 68, died at General hospital.

Should Good Folks Get Special Breaks?

(Presenting Mrs. E. C. Perkins, Toledo, Ohio, as Columnist of the Day.)

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MRS. E. C. PERKINS wishes we'd make folks stop picking on her. You see it's this way—

Mrs. Perkins doesn't like to drink. "I hate the stuff," says she. But are her friends willing to let it go at that? They are not To the contrary they seem to go out of their way to plague and pester her.

"Why," cries she, "can't my friends accept a polite refusal without trying to force me to take something I don't want? If I refuse an offer of candy or cigarettes, nothing is said. But just let me prefer ginger ale to a highball and my hostess seems to take it as a personal insult and begins the usual barrage of questions:

"Don't drink? F'heavensake, why not? Aw, com'on, jess one li'l' drink! Be a sport! Don't be a panty-waist!" Or they even proceed to sneer, "So you think you're too good, eh?"

Now I have my own good and sufficient reasons for not drinking and I believe they should be respected. Haven't I the right to personal liberty? Really, Elsie, something ought to be done about this situation, for it is widespread. Not don't tell me to change my friends and associates; I like them They're a great bunch But won't you tell them to please be a little more thoughtful of the feelings of others?"

Mrs. E C Perkins
1418 N. Cove Blvd.
Toledo, Ohio.

Will I tell 'em? No, I won't, lady To the contrary, I think that it's you and several million other Nice People who need the telling.

Now, get me right. I respect your stand concerning drink. I think you're a mighty nice little outfit yourself with all the smart answers on your side. But I think you're plumb wrong in one respect; namely, this demand for protection against your less wise friends.

There's the flaw in so much of our goodness; we want it made easy, popular and safe. And we're inclined to grab our doll rags and run home to mama if it isn't. Which is plain piffle.

The world is a raw, rude, rough place and civilization is a mighty slow process. Most of us are only a few toddles removed from the original hoss thieves and ready to revert without much coaxing.

Righteousness is not only rare but risky since it's apt to make the Other Fellow feel like a dirty deuce. But is that any reason why you should expect God or Uncle Sam to give you an accident insurance against Heedless Hecklers? It is not.

VIRTUE IS ITS OWN REWARD. IF IT ISN'T, THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG WITH YOUR BRAND. And that goes for the whole bunch of moralities. If you can't enjoy goodness for its own sake, you'd beter go back and start over. For goodness isn't any kindergarten game. It's the tallest and toughest adventure any mortal can face. And the saint who can't stand a little parlor razzing would certainly have had the heckuva time with Mr. Nero's lions.

Good Word For Age And Youth.

To Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, who rates the age of only 32, 'new blood" in the supreme court or anywhere else wouldn't necessarily mean youth: nor would age have very much to do with it. The governor says he would not oppose a man for president simply because he happened to be 37 and is able to see a good president even at 80. What really matters, he holds, "is the man's vigor of mind, judgment and philosophy of government."

The opinion is important largely because it is contrary to views that have had a certain currency in recent years, views not only about age in relation to public office but to private employment. Frequently it is contended that men cannot get jobs because they are too young or too old. They may be either: there are limits both ways. But arbitrary lines are drawn too freely. The argument in support of them is thin. An answer to it is overdue.—Kansas City Star.

"Elbow Room."

"Elbow" is what the Anglo Saxons, from whom we have the word, called elboga meaning "bending of the forearm"—which brings us to the meat of the story of the phrase "elbow room"

This expression was originally military parlance, springing from a French army formation which required a distance of two feet between the soldiers

In being trained to keep this distance the men were made to march with their arms akimbo, their elbows barely touching, until they had fixed the habit of [illegible]

Head-Banging Nervous Habit.

—By DR. CLENDENING

What can be done for a little girl, three years old, who has the habit of rhythmically rocking to and fro and banging her head against the back of the chair?

Head-banging of this sort is a very common nervous condition in childhood. It is not due to any organic nervous disease, but is the result of habit. It begins as an expression of general nervous irritation and as the habit grows it becomes more and more difficult to break it. The first attacks usually begin about bedtime. The children seldom harm themselves, but it becomes very annoying to parents and onlookers.

Treatment may be in the form of restraint or by the use of a sedative at bedtime In some children restraint, however, simply makes them worse. When the child is old enough, the best treatment, by all means, is in the form of education, to argue him out of it.

Does the wearing of dentures affect the sense of taste?

Artificial teeth are generally believed to affect taste, but the facts are that they do not alter taste appreciably at all. Experiments made by Professor Laird at Philadelphia with different substances — sweet, salt, tart tastes—showed no change. The people on whom the experiment was made were blindfolded and even in great dilutions they were able to tell sweet tastes and even distinguish between orange, pineapple and grapefruit juice.

It must be remembered that taste preferences change with passing years, whether one wears dentures or not, and that there is a numbing due to age, which is probably why people believe that the dentures actually affect their sense of taste

I had my eyes tested a while ago and was told I had astigmatism. I am wearing glasses for this now but I do not think I see quite clearly yet. I am under the impression that the glasses should correct all visual defects and that I should see quite clearly.

Properly-fitted glasses correct astigmatism and make the vision clearer, but they do not always necessarily make sharp vision. Before glasses are fitted the eyes try to correct astigmatism and are able to do so to a certain extent, and they may continue to strain after the glasses are put on, which creates a little blurring. If glasses for astigmatism do not correct the defect completely after being worn for six months, they should be investigated.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The search for spies, plus other crime-deterrent factors, has brought the question of universal finger-printing up for consideration at the White House. At first the president seemed to lean toward the idea that it would be a good plan to require everyone in the United States to be finger-printed. However, he is now inclined against it.

Reason the plan did not get very far was this: It was pointed out by close advisers that to make finger-printing effective as a crime-detector, it would have to be done every year.

A man who commits a crime naturally becomes a fugitive from justice at once. His finger-prints might be known, but this knowledge would not help catch him unless he and everyone in the country were re-finger-printed at regular intervals.

Such a system, it was pointed out to Roosevelt, might eventually transform the United States to a status similar to Europe, where strangers registering in hotels have to fill in police reports or show a passport with their finger-prints stamped on it.

So, for the time being, the White House has turned thumbs down on finger-prints.

Missing Garner.

THERE are 95 Garners in the latest Washington telephone book—but not John Nance Garner, vice president of the U. S. When in the capital he stays at a hotel and does not have a private outside phone.

The only cabinet member listed in the directory is Harry Woodring, secretary of war. All the others have unlisted phones.

The president is not listed, but the White House is—National 1414, with an operator on duty day and night. There are no Roosevelts in the directory, but there is a Roosevelt Valet & Laundry Service. Also, a White House Cleaners & Dyers and a White House Meat market.

As a business title, the "New Deal" is almost holding its own in Washington In 1934 there were six firms listed as "New Deal" so-and-so. In 1938, when the GOP hit the political jackpot, the number of "New Deal" firms dropped to four. But now the number is up to five

You can also find a George Washington in the new directory. He is a carpenter. There are other George Washingtons, but they have middle initials.

A unique listing in the directory is the League for Larger Life. Inquiry disclosed that it has 25 members, interested in health, psychology, progressive trends of thought. They stage a dance once a week, run a summer camp and serve only vegetarian meals

Governor Stark.

WHEN Lloyd Stark, crime-crusading governor of Missouri, was in Washington recently, he had a reunion with the man who revolutionized the process of stoking fires in the boiler rooms of naval vessels. He is Capt. William Russell White, one of the great engineers of the navy, and chief engineer on the U S. S. Montana when Governor Stark was just out of Annapolis 30 years ago.

At that time no naval vessels burned oil, and the coal fires were stoked every four hours. Captain White had a theory that more steam and speed could be obtained if the fires were stoked every four minutes. Other naval experts disagreed. They said no human being could stand being in the boiler room to stoke the fires every four minutes.

"So Capt. White selected me and another midshipman as his guinea pigs," Governor Stark reminisced regarding the incident. "We were in the tropics, and it was 130 degrees in the boiler room. But we went down, stripped to the waist, and stoked the fires every four minutes. Between times we stood under the air vent.

"I lost 20 pounds, but we proved that men could stand up under the heat, and also we proved that you could get up more steam by stoking the fires that frequently."

Capt. White, now retired, thinks Stark is the greatest governor in the United States, while Stark thinks White is the navy's greatest officer.

GOP Farm Plank.

REPUBLICAN leaders know just how Richard III felt when he cried, "A horse A horse! My kingdom for a horse!"

They feel exactly the same way about a 1940 farm plank. It's become their biggest campaign headache. For months they've been trying to figure out a safe answer and still they aren't anywhere near it The problem has them on the merry-go-round

On one hand is the fact that the Middle West is the big hope of the Republican party next year. Here the GOP made its heaviest gains in 1938 when local issues played a potent role. To carry it next year, as the Republicans must do to win the presidency, they must convince the rural voters that they can do better for them than the New Deal. And that's just where the rub comes.

For on the other hand the New Deal, through the various AAA benefit payments, is dishing out big dough to the growers. Between 80 and 90 per cent of all grain belt farmers participate in this program.

So if the Republicans condemn it too strongly, they may scare away votes. But if they don't condemn it, they tacitly admit the AAA is pretty good.

How worried are the Republicans over this situation is shown by the fact, known only to insiders, that they now have four separate groups hard at work trying to concoct a plank.

At the Sawmill

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

JUST up the hollow north of our village, a sawmill stands I pass that way as I go to town. For two weeks I have watched the smoke curl above the top of the big smokestack, light at first, then turning to that blue color that means a clean wood fire. The woodsy fragrance of it is homelike, and invites one to enter.

However I waited until I returned, when the crew would be busy sawing. At the northern end of the rudely-made shelter was a large steam traction engine. High above the boiler I saw the broad moving pulley from which a belt was stretched to another that ran the saw, the blower for the sawdust, a buzz saw to cut boiler fuel, and the carriage on which the heavy logs were placed.

"How long has this mill been here?" I asked the sawyer.

"Not more'n four years," he returned. "But in that time we've done a lot of sawing. Farmers bring their logs in when the fall work is done and we saw lumber by the thousands."

"Is timber getting scarce?" I wondered.

"Not that we can notice much You see, farmers through here own their farms and cut only the old dead chestnut and any other timber that won't get no better. There's finer forests around here now than there were ten years ago. They take better care of the woods than they used to."

I watched while three men rolled a big white oak log upon the carriage, and firmly fastened it. The sawyer pulled a throttle and the engine speeded up. The log moved slowly to meet the whirling saw which sliced a long thin slab and left a clean straight face upon one side. Several boards were cut from all four sides, until the square center was the right size for a long switch tie. Sawdust sifted out like drifting sand upon the summit of the mammoth heap. The fragrant odor of newmade lumber was satisfying. I drew a deep long breath as I turned, to go. A mill like this is not a ruthless butcher of our present timber, but one that is valuable to the neighborhood.

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

By MARIE BLIZARD

(Copyright, 1939)

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

AFTER Prunella closed the door back of her, Fabienne reached for the lamp switch on her bedside table. She took a mirror from the drawer and held it up to her face. Only anxiety showed there, and some of her shock. So her love for Bill Mallory showed in her face, did it!

She put the mirror away and lay in darkness, knowing, admitting that she did love Bill. And she knew it took no second sight for anyone to read it, knowing that in her unguarded moments, her thoughts must have been written in her eyes.

If Prunella had seen it, Ellen, too, must have been aware of it.

And Bill? No, not Bill. She had been careful of that, leaning backward in her effort to keep from him what she felt. Also a man was not as likely, as a woman would be, to know what those swift changes, those lights in her eyes, those tender smiles would mean.

A woman in love would know Ellen would know. Ellen had never said that she was in love with Bill. But wasn't their easy camaraderie, their long intimacy, those looks of unspoken understanding enough to convince Fabienne that theirs was a love that needed no announcement?

Ellen—Ellen, who was such a good, kind, understanding friend, Ellen, who had been closer to her than any other girl she had ever known; Ellen who had given her work that gave her life meaning, and who had even taken her into her home, nursed her when she was ill. Her thoughts were filled with Ellen and they were compounded of gratitude and affection and shame.

On the fringe of that tapestry of thought, there was the image of Bill. Telling herself that she did love him—even though she knew that he was not for her—she would like to have taken out her memories like treasures and fondled them, cherishing the remembrance of his touch, his tenderness; delighting her mind's eye with a gallery of pictures of him. Bill at the clinic in his white coat with his kindly eyes and slow smile, silencing fears and promising healing; Bill with his hat brim snapped over his eyes, his trench coat collar carelessly turned up as he walked with her one snowy, still night; Bill sitting beside her bed during those long, feverish nights, giving her his strength.

No, she must not think of that while there was Ellen, Ellen whom she had hurt so much.

It must end now. She must go away. Bill said that she couldn't go back to the settlement house for some time, that she ought to go south and get some warm sunshine. But she couldn't do that, there was the little theater near ing its completion—and there was also the fact that she was without funds. Of course, she knew that she could always get money from Uncle Mark or Gertrude.

She wouldn't go south, but she would leave Ellen's apartment. The problem was how to do it without making her reason obvious.

The solution came from a quarter she least expected. Two days after the long night she had spent in unhappy speculation, Dick came down from Harvard and told her that he was going to be married at once and leave for Chili.

He came in at supper time when Bill and Ellen were keeping Fabienne company at a card table set up beside her couch.

"My two very good friends, Ellen Chapman and Dr. Mallory, I want you to meet my brother, Dick," she said, kissing Dick and holding him at arm's length. "And what's the meaning of this? I didn't know there were any holidays this week?"

"No more holidays for me," he said gaily. "I'm going to work."

"Work?" She hadn't taken him seriously. Seymour men never worked. They raised horses or served on boards.

"My girl's old man is giving me a job with his company in Chili. Brenda and I are going to be married a week from Saturday. We're sailing the following Monday. Incidentally, Fab, she's a swell person. She wants you to be a bridesmaid."

Fabienne's thoughts were in a state of utter confusion. "A little slower please, darling. Is this the Haviland girl who lives in California?"

He nodded proudly.

"But I don't even know her," Fabienne protested. "And she wants me to be a bridesmaid? I don't believe I'll be able to get to California in that time."

"The wedding is going to be here. At the apartment."

"What apartment?" Fabienne asked patiently.

"Mother's apartment, of course."

"But mother hasn't an apartment. At least, it's rented to the Derwents,"

"Was," he told her. "They've gone to Arizona. I called mother in Paris last night. She's sailing for home day after tomorrow. Brenda's mother is dead and so mother is going to give her the wedding."

Yes, Fabienne thought, mother would. She remembered her mother's Christmas letter and her hopes for her son ("The Havilands have tons of money.")

* * *

Dick was saying apologetically, "I'd just as soon get married at the City Hall, but you know how girls are. We'll be in the wilds for some time, so Brenda wants a big show before she goes. Bridesmaids and veil and church wedding. All that stuff."

Belatedly, Fabienne caught her brother's hand and gave it a little squeeze. "The best of luck to you Dick! I'd love to be a bridesmaid at your wedding."

"When you and Nicky get married, send me a wire and I'll do the same for you. How is the old boy?"

"Very fine," she said, looking neither at Ellen nor Bill, but managing enthusiasm in her voice for their benefit. "I haven't seen him for a month and I miss him. I expect he'll be here shortly. I'd like him to be here for the wedding. Any family party without Nicky wouldn't seem right. He—he belongs, doesn't he?" When she finished her effort there were spots of pink showing on the thin bones of her face.

"They've been sweethearts since they were kids," Dick explained to Ellen and Bill.

Fabienne lowered her eyes, not denying it, hoping that Ellen would think what she wanted her to.

"Now what about you, sis? Had a cold?"

Bill said, "She nearly had pneumonia."

Fabienne said, "It wasn't too serious, Dick. Not worth troubling you all about. Ellen and Bill have taken very good care of me between them."

"It looks as if they did. You got a cozy place here," Dick told Ellen frankly, scrutinizing the big, pleasant room.

"I like it better since Fabienne came to live with me," Ellen answered, smiling at the girl on the couch. "It was big and lonesome before."

"I've liked it, too," Fabienne said steadily, meeting Ellen's eyes across the room. "I'm going to miss it when I go."

"GO?" Bill and Ellen said it together.

"Where are you going?" Dick put the rest of the question.

"Why back to mother's of course," she said simply.

Back to mother's big, beautiful apartment, away from the first real home she had ever had away from those morning breakfasts with Ellen, from those evenings with Ellen and Bill. Back to a life she no longer wanted so that Ellen would never again see her look at Bill and know that she loved him.

ON THE "FIT-YOUR-BUDGET" PLAN

Read how you can borrow without endorsers and repay in small monthly installments—No credit inquiries of friends or relatives—Prompt, private service

NOW you can apply for a loan on a helpful "fit-your-budget" plan. You borrow without endorsers and repay in monthly installments of the amount that best fits your income. You may repay a small amount each month. Or you may repay in larger installments and thus reduce the cost.

Suppose you need $100 and can conveniently repay $9.46 a month. Twelve such payments will repay your loan in full, including charges. Or if you wish smaller payments, $4.46 per month for 30 months will repay a $100 loan.

Simple to borrow at Household

All you do to get a Household Finance loan is tell us your needs. No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives. Loans are made on furniture, car or note. Friends or fellow-workers don't have to sign the loan papers with you. You get your loan promptly, privately and without embarrassment.

Choose the plan that fits your budget

Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment which fits your budget. See how you may make very small payments if you wish. Or you may pay larger installments and pay up sooner. Note how little your loan costs if you repay in a short time. A loan of $100 repaid in four monthly installments costs only $5.04.

One rate to everyone

Household has only one price—the same rate to all, whether new customers or former borrowers.

In case of sickness or unemployment, Household shows the borrower every consideration. Last year Household foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 10,000 loans—an action taken then only as protection against fraud.

This table is based on prompt repayment. You may pay ahead of schedule if you wish. Advance payment reduces the cost of your loan proportionately since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments are calculated at Household's rates of 2% per month on loans up to $300 and 6% per year on balances above $300 up to $500. These rates are less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law (Ohio).

BLASTS STILL ROCK RAIDER SUNK BY CREW

Germany Files Bitter Protest on 'Forced Suicide' of Prize Nazi Battleship.

the Graf Spee, and this accounted for the earth-shaking explosions that ripped the vessel from stem to stern and sent it to the bottom.

Reports received in Buenos Aires indicated that the German government has sent strong representations to the Urguayan government, accusing authorities at Montevideo of refusing to allow sufficient time for the Graf Spee to undergo repairs.

Such a protest undoubtedly will be supported, it was believed, by Captain Langsdorff's charges that repair work was sabotaged. In a bitter letter to German Minister Otto Langmann in Montevideo, the sea captain made his charges a short time before sailing his vessel out of the harbor and scuttling it —with the approval of Chancellor Hitler and without loss of a single life.

The captain's letter charged that the Uruguayan government disregarded international law by not permitting the Graf Spee to remain long enough to complete repairs.

Insisting the vessel was battleworthy, he charged that all chances of restoring her to navigability were "sabotaged purposely" by engineers of the only Montevideo concern capable of carrying out the work, and "to a lesser extent by customs authorities who placed serious obstacles in the path of delivering materials for repairs."

He said he determined to sink the vessel "not because of the danger of enemy action" but because she could not be navigated safely as a result of the hammering she took in last Wednesday's sea battle.

"It was not," he wrote, "because of the danger of enemy action, but exclusively because my ship was in no condition to navigate that I commanded my men to scuttle the Admiral Graf Spee. . . . .

"For reasons set forth in this letter I am indisposed to deliver control of my ship to Uruguay. My ship did not suffer in the slightest degree so far as her combative strength was concerned.

"Under these circumstances the only solution for me was to sink my ship, blowing it up after disembarking the crew."

Allied Planes Near.

Captain Langsdorff sent his ship down as five warplanes, believed to be allied craft from waiting British and French warships anchored off the La Plate estuary, soared overhead.

She settled at about 7:30 p. m. (6 p. m. EST) in about 25 feet of water after a second mighty blast ripped her steel frame.

The decision to sink the ship was reached when it was compelled to leave Montevideo and was cornered by some 14 British and French warships waiting for the kill as soon as it might appear. The Graf Spee went down stern first with her swastika still flying at her staff.

With her personnel safely off the boat, the first explosion at 7:45 p. m. sent a sheet of flame leaping hundreds of feet into the air. Twenty minutes later a second blast that rocked the surrounding countryside sent the ship to its grave.

Later Captain Langsdorff and his officers boarded the Argentine coast guard boat Libertad, which set out for Argentina. The members of the enlisted crew, aboard the Tacoma, were expected to follow.

The Graf Spee was scuttled at a spot on the estuary's outer roadstead away from the regular steamer channel, in order not to block traffic. It left the harbor only half an hour before the 6 p. m. deadline stiuplated by the Uruguayan government for departure or internment for duration of the war.

See Germany Claim Damages From Uruguay.

BERLIN — (AP) — The possibility that Germany may claim damages from Uruguay for the scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee arose today when authorized sources explained the basis of a German protest to the Uruguayan government.

They cited article XVII of the Hague agreement of 1907 and said Uruguay had contravened international law in granting only 72 hours for repairs to the battle-damaged German warship.

They expressed belief Uruguay acted under British pressure.

Although not committing themselves directly, these sources voiced the opinion that if Uruguayan responsibility for the scuttling of the Admiral Graf Spee can be proved, Germany can demand reparation for an illegal act.

Nazis Hurl Charges At Uruguay Government.

BERLIN —(U.P.)— Germany has protested to Uruguay that insufficient time was permitted to make the pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee seaworthy, the official news agency announced today.

The protest, made by German Minister Otto Langmann at Montevideo, was made public in the form of a dispatch from Montevideo.

Soon after the Graf Spee was blown up last night, the German legation at Montevideo had made public a protesting letter which Capt. Hans Langsdorff, of the Graf Spee, had sent to the German minister before he boarded his ship for its final six mile cruise down the Montevideo channel to the river Platte estuary.

It had been made known officially that Adolf Hitler himself had ordered the Admiral Graf Spee scuttled because there had not been time for repairs. The action was similar to that taken by the Germans in the first World war.

"Regarding the sinking of the armored cruiser Admiral Graf Spee it is made known that the fuehrer and highest commander gave the order to Capt. Langsdorff to destroy the ship through its own explosion inasmuch as the Uruguayan government had declined to give the time necessary to make the ship seaworthy," said a communique of the official news agency.

Uruguay Government Arrests 4 Seamen.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay—(U.P.) —Four seamen of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee were arrested by Uruguayan harbor authorities today on the charge of blowing up their ship.

A corporal, a fireman and two ordinary seamen, the Germans were taken from the supply ship Tacoma, which had brought them back to Montevideo after the Graf Spee was blown up six miles off Montevideo.

It was undertsood that Capt. Hans Langsdorff, commander of the Graf Spee, himself missed arrest only narrowly. The Uruguayan official tug Huracan intercepted an Argentine tug on which he was leaving the scene for Buenos Aires, and permitted the launch to proceed only after exchanging radio mesages with marine headquarters. Headquarters asid that Langsdorff should be permitted to go where he liked, it was said.

Uruguay's action in arresting the four Admiral Graf Spee seamen came like a tacit reply to an official German protest that the ship had not been given sufficient time to make necessary repairs.

the Suomussalmi troops would be of the spearhead shoved into central Finland.

The commander also was quoted as saying that the Finnish command was convinced that a Russian tank corps which recently attacked Salmijarvi, on the Norwegian border in the Petsamo region northernmost Finland, had used a Norwegian road. Norwegian authorities, however, said they had been informed of no such violation of their border.

From the Salmijarvi front came unofficial word that the reds had faltered in their assault on that center of the nickel mining area and that the town's defenders were making a fierce stand in the Arctic darkness and temperatures ranging to 13 degrees below zero.

Appeals for Aid.

President Kyosti Kallio, broadcasting yesterday to the armed forces, appealed indirectly again for "substantial aid" from the world to meet the Russian invasion.

"There is no need of protesting our innocence regarding the outbreak of this war," he said.

"We need more active help than that so far obtained. As our cause is the joint cause of the whole civilized world, we believe that the civilized nations cannot leave us alone on this front.

"We hope that our joint cultural values and principles of justice will be jointly defended."

WIFE POISONED

Filling Station Attendant Held in Death of Mother of 7.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va.—(U.P.)—A 35-year-old Tazewell, Va., filling station attendant was held without bail in the Tazewell county jail today on a charge of fatally poisoning his estranged wife, the mother of seven children.

Roy Bennett, 35, was arrested after chemists at the state health department at Richmond, Va., reported finding traces of strychnine in the stomach, liver and spleen of Mrs. Annie Bennett, who died last Monday.

NAZI CRUISER SUNK BY SUB

London Reports Submarine Slipped Past Six German Ships to Sink Her.

submarine blows to the German cruisers, but also by the scuttling of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee and the sea battle across the Atlantic which sent her fleeing into Montevideo.

Derided By Press.

The destruction of the German warship by her own crew yesterday was derided in the British press as "ignoble suicide."

The admiralty report said the submarine that torpedoed the larger German cruiser also sank a German submarine.

(The German high command acknowledged last week that an "underwater explosion near one light cruiser" had caused damage, but called it "unimportant.")

New praise was given to crews of the British warships which drove the German pocket battleship to cover in Montevideo, while relief was expressed that the death list in Wednesday's 14-hour battle was no higher than 72 dead and 31 wounded.

It was announced 61 men were killed and 23 wounded on the British cruiser Exeter, which bore the brunt of the day-long battle off the Uruguayan coast, backed up by the cruisers Ajax and Achilles.

As the Admiral Graf Spee went to her death, German planes bombed and sent machine-gun bullets into a shipping center on England's east coast. From a seaside promenade, crowds watched Royal Air force planes and anti-aircraft batteries chase off the German bombers. The 487-ton British steamer Serenity was bombed and sunk in what was believed a raid on a fleet of mine sweepers off the northeast coast.

Some witnesses in the coastal raid said they believed one of the enemy planes was shot down in the aerial combat.

The week-end brought new losses to British and neutral shipping.

Landing of a crew of 14, who spent seven hours in the open sea, disclosed the sinking of the 1,162-ton British steamer Amble, which struck a mine in the North sea.

An unidentified Norwegian ship was reported sunk off the coast of Scotland, and another was aground near the northeast English coast.

Eight crewmen were reported missing in the sinking of the 321-ton Norwegian steamer Strindheim, and the crew of the Jotun, 534 tons, also Norwegian, was rescued after she ran ashore.

Germans Claim Four Merchant Ships Sunk.

BERLIN — (AP) — The official German news agency, DNB, reported today that German bombers sank four British merchantmen and damaged three warships yesterday in an air attack.

In elaborating on a high command communique which said "one vanguard ship" was sunk by a bomb, DNB declared German planes attacked a British convoy with bombs and machine-guns.

"The mere appearance of the German planes on the scene sufficed to cause the greatest disquietude on the British ships," DNB reported. "Numerous crews fled into the lifeboats although their ships were not attacked at all.

"One group of German scouters attacked the convoy protected by the men-'o'-war. After the first bomb fell among the ships, the convoy scattered to the four winds. Several explosions could be observed."

FLAMES SIGNAL 'DEATH' OF SPEE

Eye-Witness Flies Over Nazi Raider as Explosions Set Her Afire at Sea.

appeared on the horizon and the correspondent, thinking it a British warship on the "death watch" closing in, ordered his pilot there. It was the Uruguayan gunboat, Uruguay. By the time the plane returned to the Admiral Graf Spee, a tank ship was coming into the river from Montevideo harbor.

The plane dipped again. It was the German tanker, Tacoma, the Admiral Graf Spee's supply ship. The swastika flew at her stern. Her starboard side was toward the Admiral Graf Spee and it was lined with the young German sailors, at attention. The motor launches had dropped away from the Admiral Graf Spee and were now trailing the Tacoma.

It seemed strange that so many of the Admiral Graf Spee's crew should be abord the Tacoma if she was going to sea to do battle with an enemy force much stronger than herself.

Now she was in water so shallow, her propellors could be seen kicking up mud and she was leaving a long, brown wake. It appeared that the skipper might be intending to run her aground deliberately and thus gain more time.

Through scudding white clouds, black smoke could be seen on the seaward horizon. It was British awaiting battle. The pilot was far out over international waters, and fearing that some ship commander might turn his anti-aircraft guns on a strange plane, he turned back.

The Admiral Graf Spee was motionless in the motionless sea. A small boat put off from her and made for the Tacoma which was two miles away. We saw it unload a large number of men. Two more small boats put off from the warship and went to the Tacoma.

The pilot turned his plane directly over the Admiral Graf Spee. She lay at about a 45 degree angle to the line of flight. The plane was just above her midship section, at an elevation of 2,000 feet, when the sheet of red flame leaped out of her funnel, soaring up toward the plane.

Almost at once, another blast broke through the ship near the bow, sending up smoke which hid the Admiral Graf Spee from midships to bow. The pilot dived and it seemed his right wing would touch the stern, so low did he go. Then a third blast tore through the stern deck plates and great billows of smoke arose, hiding the ship completely.

The correspondent and the pilot circled awhile, watching the flames and the smoke, occasionally seeing the flames quicken and brighten as a new explosion went off. The roar of the propellor prevented the roar of the explosions being audible.

BRITAIN HAS BIG FOODS SURPLUS

Doesn't Fear Starvation in War; Hugs Stores of Grain and Meat Ready.

(By United Press)

LONDON.— Great Britain does not fear starvation in the present war, according to government statisticians.

Secret purchases and storage of foodstuffs during the past 12 months have been so successful it was said, that even if, in the future, ships were unable to reach British ports with supplies from abroad, the nation could be fed for more than 12 months—certainly until after another harvest was gathered in.

The full extent of the government stocks has not been revealed, but in ports where wheat is stored in silos and granaries stocks are known to exceed 11,600,000 cwts.

This is 73 per cent higher than a year ago. Holdings of wheat flour are nearly 40 per cent heavier.

If the whole of Ireland is included, the stocks of wheat are 170 per cent greater than a year ago.

Purchases of wheat from abroad are reaching record figures. During the seven months ended July 31, 70,841,000 cwts. of wheat had been delivered from countries overseas. That was more than 14,000,000 cwts.

In addition, there is Britain's own harvest yet to be gathered. It is estimated at more than 30,000,000 cwts. which is much greater than the harvest of 1914, taken at the outbreak of the great war.

TAKE TURNS

Man Bringing Wife to Hospital Rushed to Operating Table.

MITCHELL, S. D.—(AP)—Seymour Hedeen was bringing his wife to the hospital here when he felt pains in his side. Doctors hustled him to the operating table and nipped out his appendix.

Mrs. Hedeen returned home to run the farm. Her turn is next.

DEER INFEST RANGE

RED BLUFF, Calif.—(U.P.)—Five thousand head of deer which "moved in" on the McKenzie-Stover winter cattle range, when their own grazing grounds were exhausted, are eating so much that the 3,000 head of cattle for which the range is maintained are threatened with starvation.

THUMBS USEFUL

Man Says Two Digits Family Trait in Male Side.

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — (INS) — "Very useful," is the way W. N. Caldwell, middle-aged Cheyenne resident, describes his four thumbs.

Caldwell has two thumbs on each hand, which he says is a family trait, and all of them are mobile; he uses them readily in his work.

He explained that for generations back the men folks on his father's side of the family have had extra thumbs and toes. He has a half brother with six toes on each foot.

In recent generations, however, Caldwell is the only one to have usable extra digits of normal size and able to operate them. His son has no extra digits but the upper joints of his thumbs are stiff.

He said his great aunt is the only woman in the family to have extra thumbs.

HE SHOWS WAY

Open Door to Palestine, End Jewish Issue, Belief.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(INS)— Opening of the doors of Palestine is the only solution to the Jewish problem, Leon Gellman, of New York, president of the Mizrachi Organization of America, told an audience here recently.

Gellman, former editor of the Jewish Record in St. Louis, complimented President Roosevel for calling a refugee conference in Washington, but added:

"Palestine is our only hope. In 1914 there were 60,000 Jews there. In 1918, the Turkish government drove out 15,000, but since then the Jewish population in Palestine has risen to 500,000. The record of the past 10 years proves that Palestine in the next 10 years could absorb 1,000,000 Jews.

"If England will help us in our difficulties over the Arab situation they will find the Jews of Palestine ready and anxious to help refugees escape the Nazi hell and the Soviet hell, which is just as bad."

In the Bessemer process, pure iron ore is obtained by blowing a blast of ordinary air on molten pig iron.
